In The Lab . . .

This is the lab. A laboratory where student teachers try their skill at the actual process of teaching. Here they sometimes succeed; they sometimes fail. But they are bigger people for having taken their part in the laboratory. Here they stutter as they spend their first day as teachers. They wonder if the students can see through them. They count the minutes until the blessed bell rings. And the bell does ring--1080 times. The student teachers doubt that they were ever as rowdy or as brilliant as their pupils. Yet here they learn to understand.

This is the lab. Here the four hundred students of University High learn the skills and concepts that will take them through school. They learn respect and admiration for education. They struggle to keep elusive knowledge in their minds. They cram for tests; yell for the team; and clap at assemblies. Here, too, they realize that they are the vital force of the lab. They strive to learn in their part of the experiment.

This is the lab. Some of the experiments in the laboratory are successes; others are failures. But the school keeps on, hoping that the next class will be a better one and that its efforts are to some advantage. This is the laboratory of education.

In Recognition

Donald Templeton

The Clarion has recognized the work of prominent teachers since its inception in 1929. The Clarion staff therefore pays tribute to three outstanding teachers at University High School, two of whom will not return to teach at U. High in the fall.

Miss Connell, founder of the Latin Club, has taught on campus for thirty-three years. She plans to retire this spring.

Dr. O'Connor, whose bristly silver hair has won him many affectionate nicknames, such as "Great White Father" and "Gray Fox," began teaching at U. High in 1937. He will become head of the Department of Physical Education for Men at ISNU September 1.

The Class of 1961 wishes to thank Mr. Donald Templeton for being its sponsor for the past four years. Mr. 'T' will again return to teach English and journalism and to direct work on the annual and newspaper.

TRADITIONS

The crownbearers stand waiting for their big moment.

The prize winning sophomore float promised to 'Cut Pontiac's Engine.'

Sophomores Are Credited

The annual assembly kicked off Homecoming 1960 with the announcement of the king and queen candidates. The queen candidates were Lydia Ciccui, Tami Hall, Donna Farr, Sue Landgraf, Sue Laubaugh, and Sue Myers. Kim Butts, Jim Greer, Ken Jackson, Joe Barger, Barry Johnson, and Harry Menton were king candidates.

Fourteen floats provided what has been termed the best parade in U-High's history. The clever slogan, 'We'll cut Pontiac's Engine' won first prize for the sophs, who also won second place with 'We'll Tar 'n Feather Them.'

The fine Homecoming spirit spurred our team to score twice, but Pontiac's swift backfield riddled our line to win 20-12.

Joe Barger fools Pontiac's defense on a naked reverse, but a couple of Indians are set to drop him.

with Prize Winning Float

It is a great day for a Homecoming game. The sun is bright and the fans are anxious for a Pioneer victory.

University High School presented the third annual 'stupendous and original' Variety Show in Capen Auditorium the night after the game. The variety came from songs by formal bedecked girls to a dance by the Canal Street Four. Sponsored by the Debate Club, Variety Show 1960 drew a large crowd and proved to be one of the highlights of the homecoming season.

A dimly lit McCormick Gym...a King...a Queen...tables surrounded by a small white picket fence...this was the Homecoming Dance. Although the Student Union Ballroom could not be reserved, McCormick Gym proved to be more than satisfactory for the occasion. The climax of the evening was the crowning of the Queen, Susan Laubaugh, and her King, Harry Menton.

Smiling couples whirl to the strains of Al Pierson's music at the Indian Summer Ball, 1960.

Juniors Give Smash Hit---'Time Out for Ginger'

The smashing hit, "Time Out for Ginger," was presented by the class of '62 in Capen. The three act production, a light comedy, dealt with the Carroll family's youngest daughter, who was on the high school football team. Members of the cast included Dick Ashbrook, Nancy Johnston, Jane Gleisner, Sherry Scheets, Nancy Washburn, Kay Yoder, Bob Briggs, Herb Honn, Steve Koppenhoefer, and Dave Doman. Mr. Legg, junior class sponsor, and Mr. Beck, directing his first U. High play, were justifiably proud of the hardworking juniors who produced, helped direct, and acted in their first class play.

Stagehand Steve Mower sits exhausted and surveys work to be done on junior class play set.

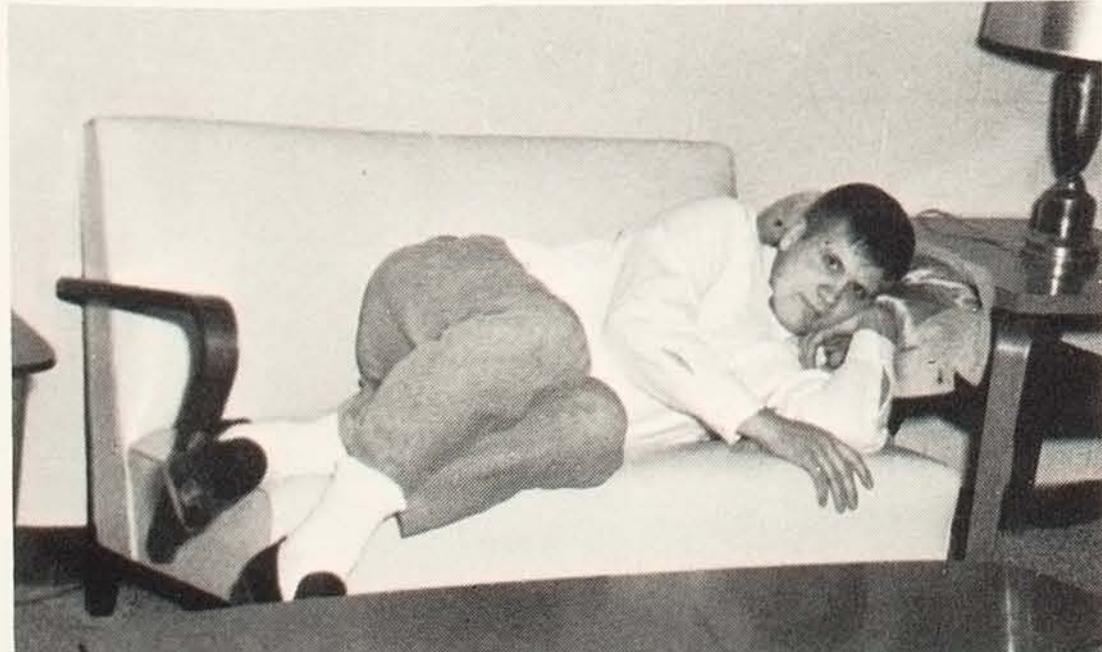

Senior Melodrama Provides Novel Entertainment

Janie Geraghty gives Sue Landgraf a rough time as Bill Pfister and Len O'Brian watch.

This year, the senior class, wishing to distinguish itself and be original in its choice of a production, selected a melodrama, "Because Their Hearts Were Pure."

This melodrama was a typical one in that it had everything from an evil villain, played by Royal Bartrum, to a lovely, pure heroine played by Susan Landgraf. Of course, we cannot forget the dashing brave Goodwin, played by John Stahly. Others in the play were the two faithful widows, Sue Laubaugh and Velma Kuntz, and the wicked ladies from the barroom, played by Patti Irwin and Donna Karr. Paul Grethey stood out in this production in the character of Mickey Finn, who was responsible for leading the gallant Goodwin astray.

Joe Barger and Mr. Beck discuss costume problems as Sherian Wilson and Velma Kuntz hunt a dress.

'Lavender and Lace'--Welcome Semester Break

Sue and Harry are lost in a "Sentimental Journey" at the Winter Formal, "Lavender and Lace."

Sue Landgraf, Barry Johnson, Karen Schiffbauer, Joe Barger, and Lydia Cicciu sit out a dance.

This year's Winter Formal, "Lavender and Lace," sponsored by the Sophomore class was as big a success as usual. The Winter Formal is the only formal dance of the year in which the whole school participates.

This year the decorations and programs all corresponded very nicely to the theme "Lavender and Lace" and all of the students appeared to be having a wonderful time dancing to the music of Al Pizzamiglio's Orchestra. The dance was held in the modern and spacious Student Union Ballroom and refreshments were provided to the dancers free of cost.

The people responsible for the gay evening were Sherry Butt, band, program, and invitation chairman, Donn Bey, tickets chairman, Cheryl Waddell, decorations and theme chairman, Frank Philpot, publicity chairman, Carole Bunn and Diane Bunting, refreshments, and Mrs. Charlotte Upton, the class sponsor. The chaperones included such parents and members of the faculty as Dr. and Mrs. Fruin, Mr. and Mrs. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Lovelass, Mr. and Mrs. Legg, Mr. and Mrs. Upton, and Miss Huggins.

More All School Parties Increase School Spirit

The all-school parties this year were mostly for promoting school spirit, and they succeeded. The first all-school party was sponsored by the Pep Club. Held after a basketball game, it served to help us get better acquainted with our opponents. It also proved a very successful kick-off for other parties to come.

Next came the FHA Christmas party. It featured everything from a very impressive Santa Claus to a fast dance contest. Mike Dawson as Santa read his list of hilariously appropriate gifts for the teachers. The Student Council wound up its very successful clothing drive at this party.

The semi-formal U Club dance honored all the athletes and their dates. Music was provided by records and a combo made up of Jim Greer, piano; Royal Bartrum, bass, and Harry Menton, trumpet.

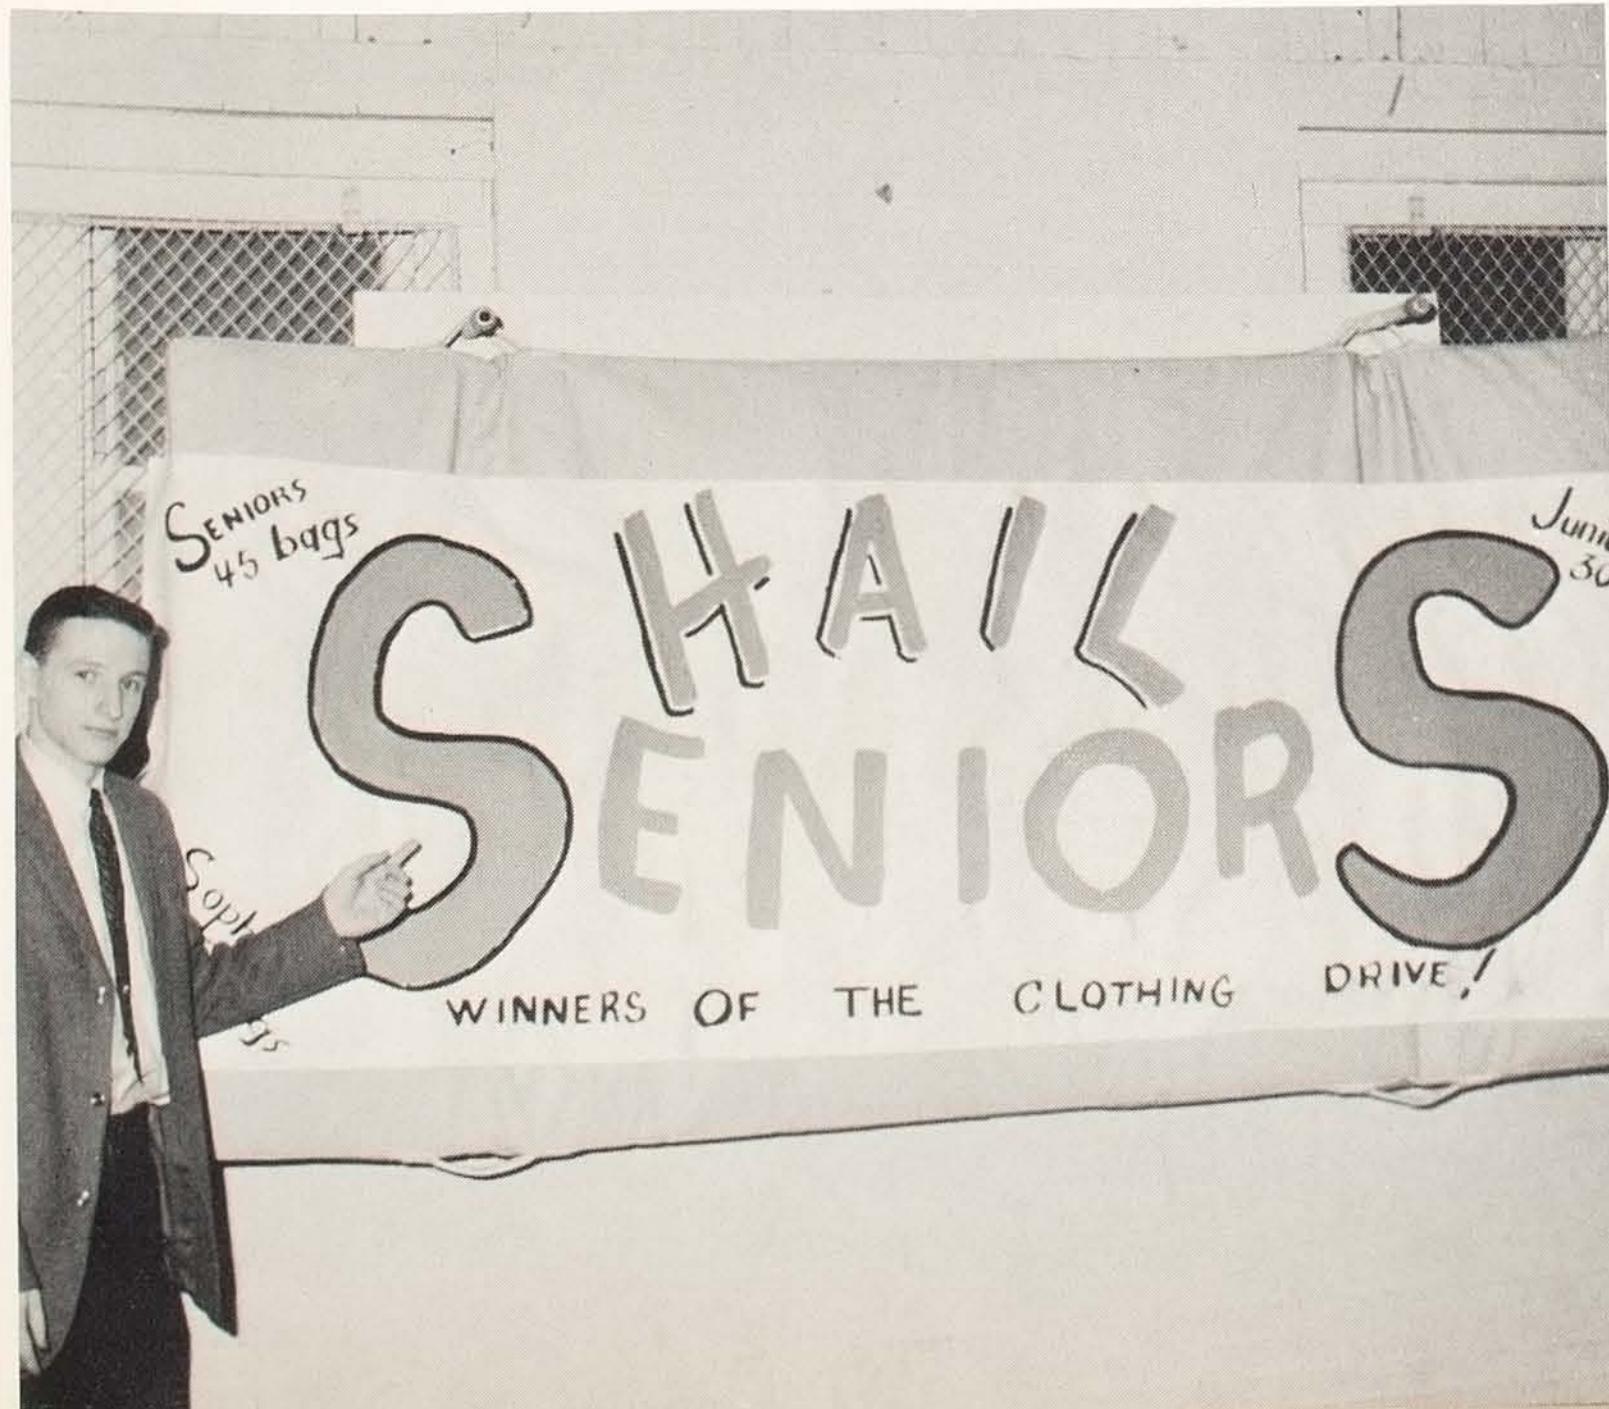

New Student Council officers were announced at the Council party before spring vacation in March. Fine entertainment was provided by Paul Grethey, Marilyn Garrison, and Ron Anson.

The swing band was scheduled to play for a band sponsored party when the annual was sent to the printer.

Barry Johnson looks satisfied as he points up the excellent results from the Clothing Drive.

Varsity cheerleaders lead student body in "Clip-clap" to rouse school spirit before a BHS game.

Assemblies Provide Entertainment and Knowledge

Everything from Cape Canaveral rockets to chorus lines was displayed on the Capen Auditorium stage for the enlightenment and entertainment of U-High students at assemblies this year.

The first show was a General Electric preview of the science of the future. Days later, a paid assembly was presented by a rocket specialist straight from the mysterious Cape Canaveral missile base.

The United Fund and clothing drive programs provided not only crazy antics by the performing students but also publicity for the worthwhile drives. These assemblies greatly stimulated competition between classes and homerooms, thus increasing the total contribution.

The assemblies took on a more serious note when the Honor Society induction ceremony for seniors was presented. Nine seniors selected by their classmates and teachers, were honored at this program. Another short but serious assembly was staged on behalf of the controversial bond issue. ISNU's Dr. Bone discussed both sides of the issue.

The annual Student Council campaign assembly presented sixteen candidates for next year's Council offices.

The variety in assemblies ranged from science to Honor Society awards.

This year the yearbook staff started off with a trip to the National Scholastic Press Association conference in Chicago. Attending were students and advisers from the fifty states, and the two-day conference was very informative to the seven who attended.

The yearbook staff decided that an early book would be a new and wonderful experience for U-High, so very strict deadlines were set, and met, by the staff. After selecting a cover for the book, the staff got down to work. As usual, it turned out that the editors were responsible for the greatest part of the book, being able to draft very little outside help. But this fact proved to be an impetus rather than a hindrance. Rather than wait for much needed help, the editors dug in and were able to finish two-thirds of the book in three weeks to meet the last deadline.

The editors were Mac Holzer, editor; Fatti Irwin and Sherian Wilson, co-copy editors; Ginger Werts, production editor; Jordan Morgenstern and Nancy Ivey, layout editors; Karen Schiffbauer, photography editor, and Bill Pfister, business manager. Our chief photographers were Bill Brown, Omar Rilett, and Sewall Phelps, who gave up much of their time to work in the darkroom.

The other U-High publication, the Clarionette, was late in getting started because of staff and printing problems, and the first paper did not come out until March. Barb Hanley, the editor-in-chief, supervised the work of Steve Koppenhoefer, news editor; Karen Mishler, feature editor, and Dave Mette, sports editor.

Pep Club and U Club Promote School Spirit

Pep Club and U-Club are responsible to promote good school spirit. This year they did their job well. The Pep Club organized a card section, and, even though it did not materialize, it did contribute to school spirit. By arranging for out-of-town buses the Pep Club bolstered the spirits of the team and the student body. The U-Club, organized by the lettermen of U-High, engaged in many activities. Among them, picking corn to raise money for a party was done. The many pep assemblies sponsored by the two clubs were welcomed by the students. Not only did they get out of classes, but they met the teams and learned many new cheers. The all school party given by the clubs was a huge success. We can be proud of our Pep and U Clubs as they have achieved their purpose----building our school spirit.

The pep assembly is over, and now it's time to get ready for the night's football game.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS: Harry Menton, president; Sue Laubaugh, treasurer; Sue Landgraf, secretary; Barry Johnson, vice president.

It was a highly successful year for the Student Council. Under the able leadership of President Harry Menton and the other officers, Barry Johnson, Susan Landgraf, and Sue Laubaugh, and the experienced advice of Mr. Eckert and Mr. Carroll, the council started off the year by sponsoring what has been considered by the students and faculty, one of the best homecomings that U-High has ever had.

Not satisfied with this achievement the council went on to sponsor the United Fund drive. Problems arose because homerooms met only once a week, making it hard to collect money, but at the last minute, money rolled in and the school ended the drive with more than twice what had been collected two years previously. The Senior class was victorious in the competition between classes.

Just before the end of the first semester, the council added another success to its record. Due to excellent management and strong inter-class rivalry, the school donated one hundred and forty five sacks of clothes to the annual Clothing drive. This was a much higher mark than had ever been reached at U-High.

The year passed leaving U-High student council with another year of successful student government behind it.

ACADEMIGS

A "What Is It?" specimen? No, these "straightened-up" desks demonstrate the scientific method.

Ten Take Part In Junior Academy of Science

Judy Wright and Jim Miller look serious about their advanced biology work.

The Science Department had an active year. Courses were taught in general science, physical science, biology, experimental biology, chemistry, and physics. An advanced chemistry course was introduced into the summer session last year. Having received much enthusiasm it will be offered again this summer in addition to field biology.

This year the department welcomed two new members to its staff. They are Mr. Mizer, biology, and Mr. Warren, general science.

The "What-Is-It" contest was sponsored again this year by the science department, in cooperation with the Normal Chamber of Commerce. Monetary awards were given for winning the "What-Is-It" contest.

Mr. Carlock, the typical mad scientist biologist, tells Kathy Marlow to "Help herself."

Fifty Students Participate in Mathematics Contest

The Math Department, under the able direction of Mr. Carroll, Eckert, Retzer, and Brown, had a busy year. In the spring, the department sponsored the annual mathematics contest. This contest consisted of an eighty minute exam in which approximately fifty U. High students participated. The winners were presented with certificates at the Honor's Day Assembly.

Two U. High math students received a special honor this year. Royal Bartrum and Mac Holzer were two of approximately 250 Illinois students who were selected for higher mathematics training by the National Science Foundation. Every Saturday they attend a seminar of advanced mathematics on the campus of Illinois Institute of Technology.

Social Studies

In government and history classes we were kept busy following the national election and reading the numerous articles on the centennial of the Civil War. The government class divided into parties and each party made a bulletin board for its candidates on the national and state levels.

Students participated in the annual Great Decisions program.

Everyone participated in the activities of the psychology class when they conducted surveys and distributed questionnaires for their individual projects.

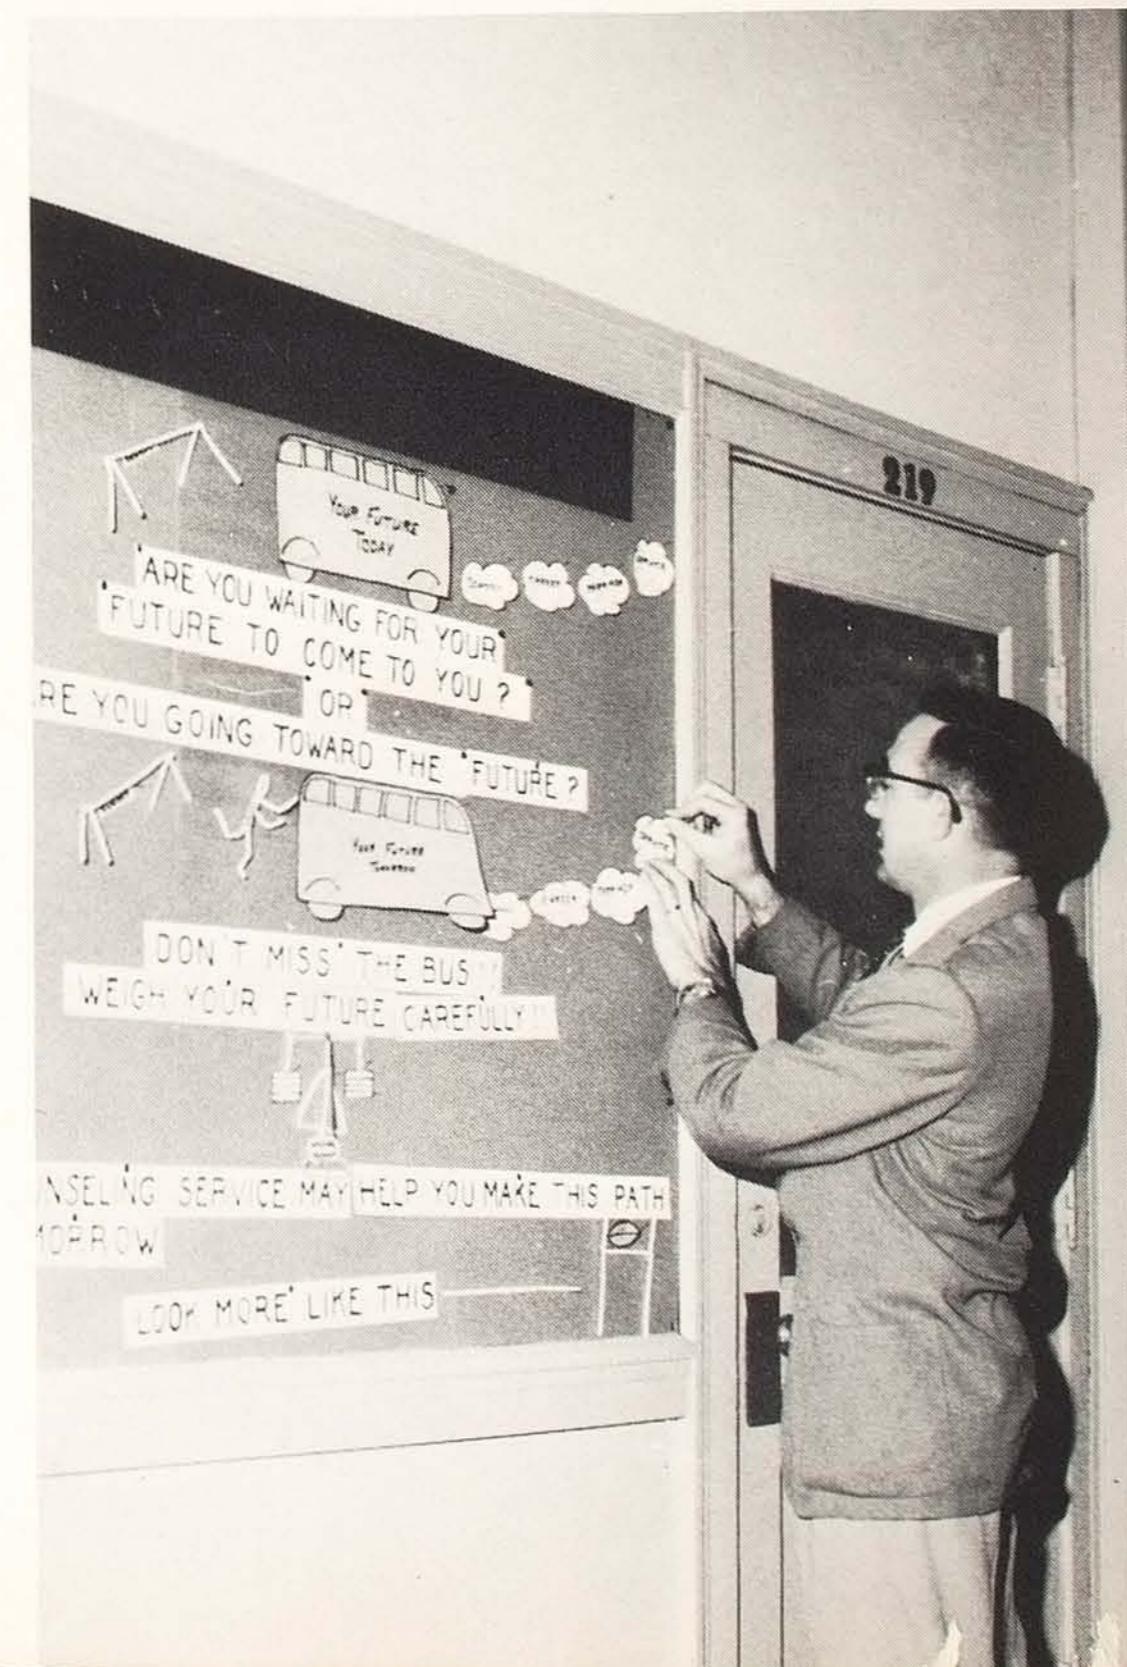

Along with numerous student teachers, we had two new teachers this year. Miss Hess, a sociology teacher from Champaign replaced Mr. Grupp. Miss Alexander, who toured Europe the second semester, left her history classes in the able hands of Mrs. Schutjer.

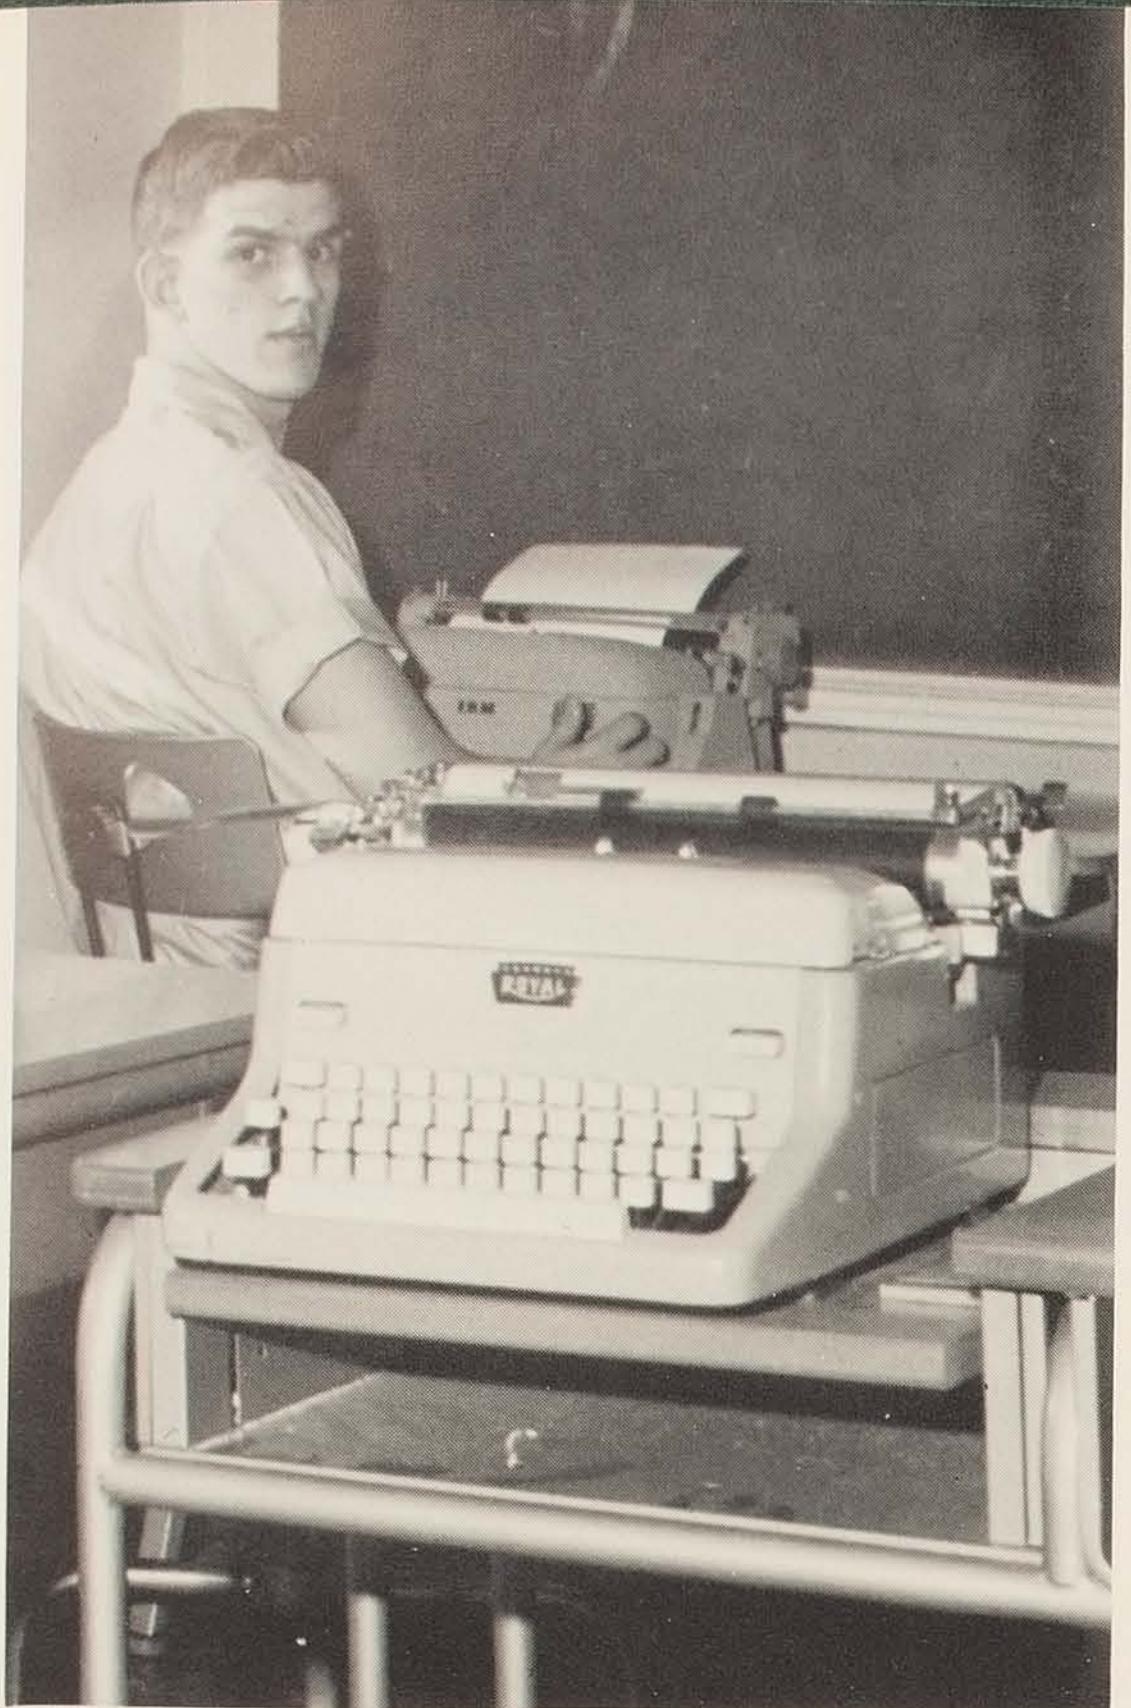

Perhaps Vaughn Monti is getting a close-up of the State Farm building through the geography 'scope.

Mr. Kelly puts the finishing touches on his display advertising the counseling service.

Bob Briggs, a lucky student, types on a rare electric typewriter.

Carol Leichtenberg works on her speed in an after-school typing session.

Business Education

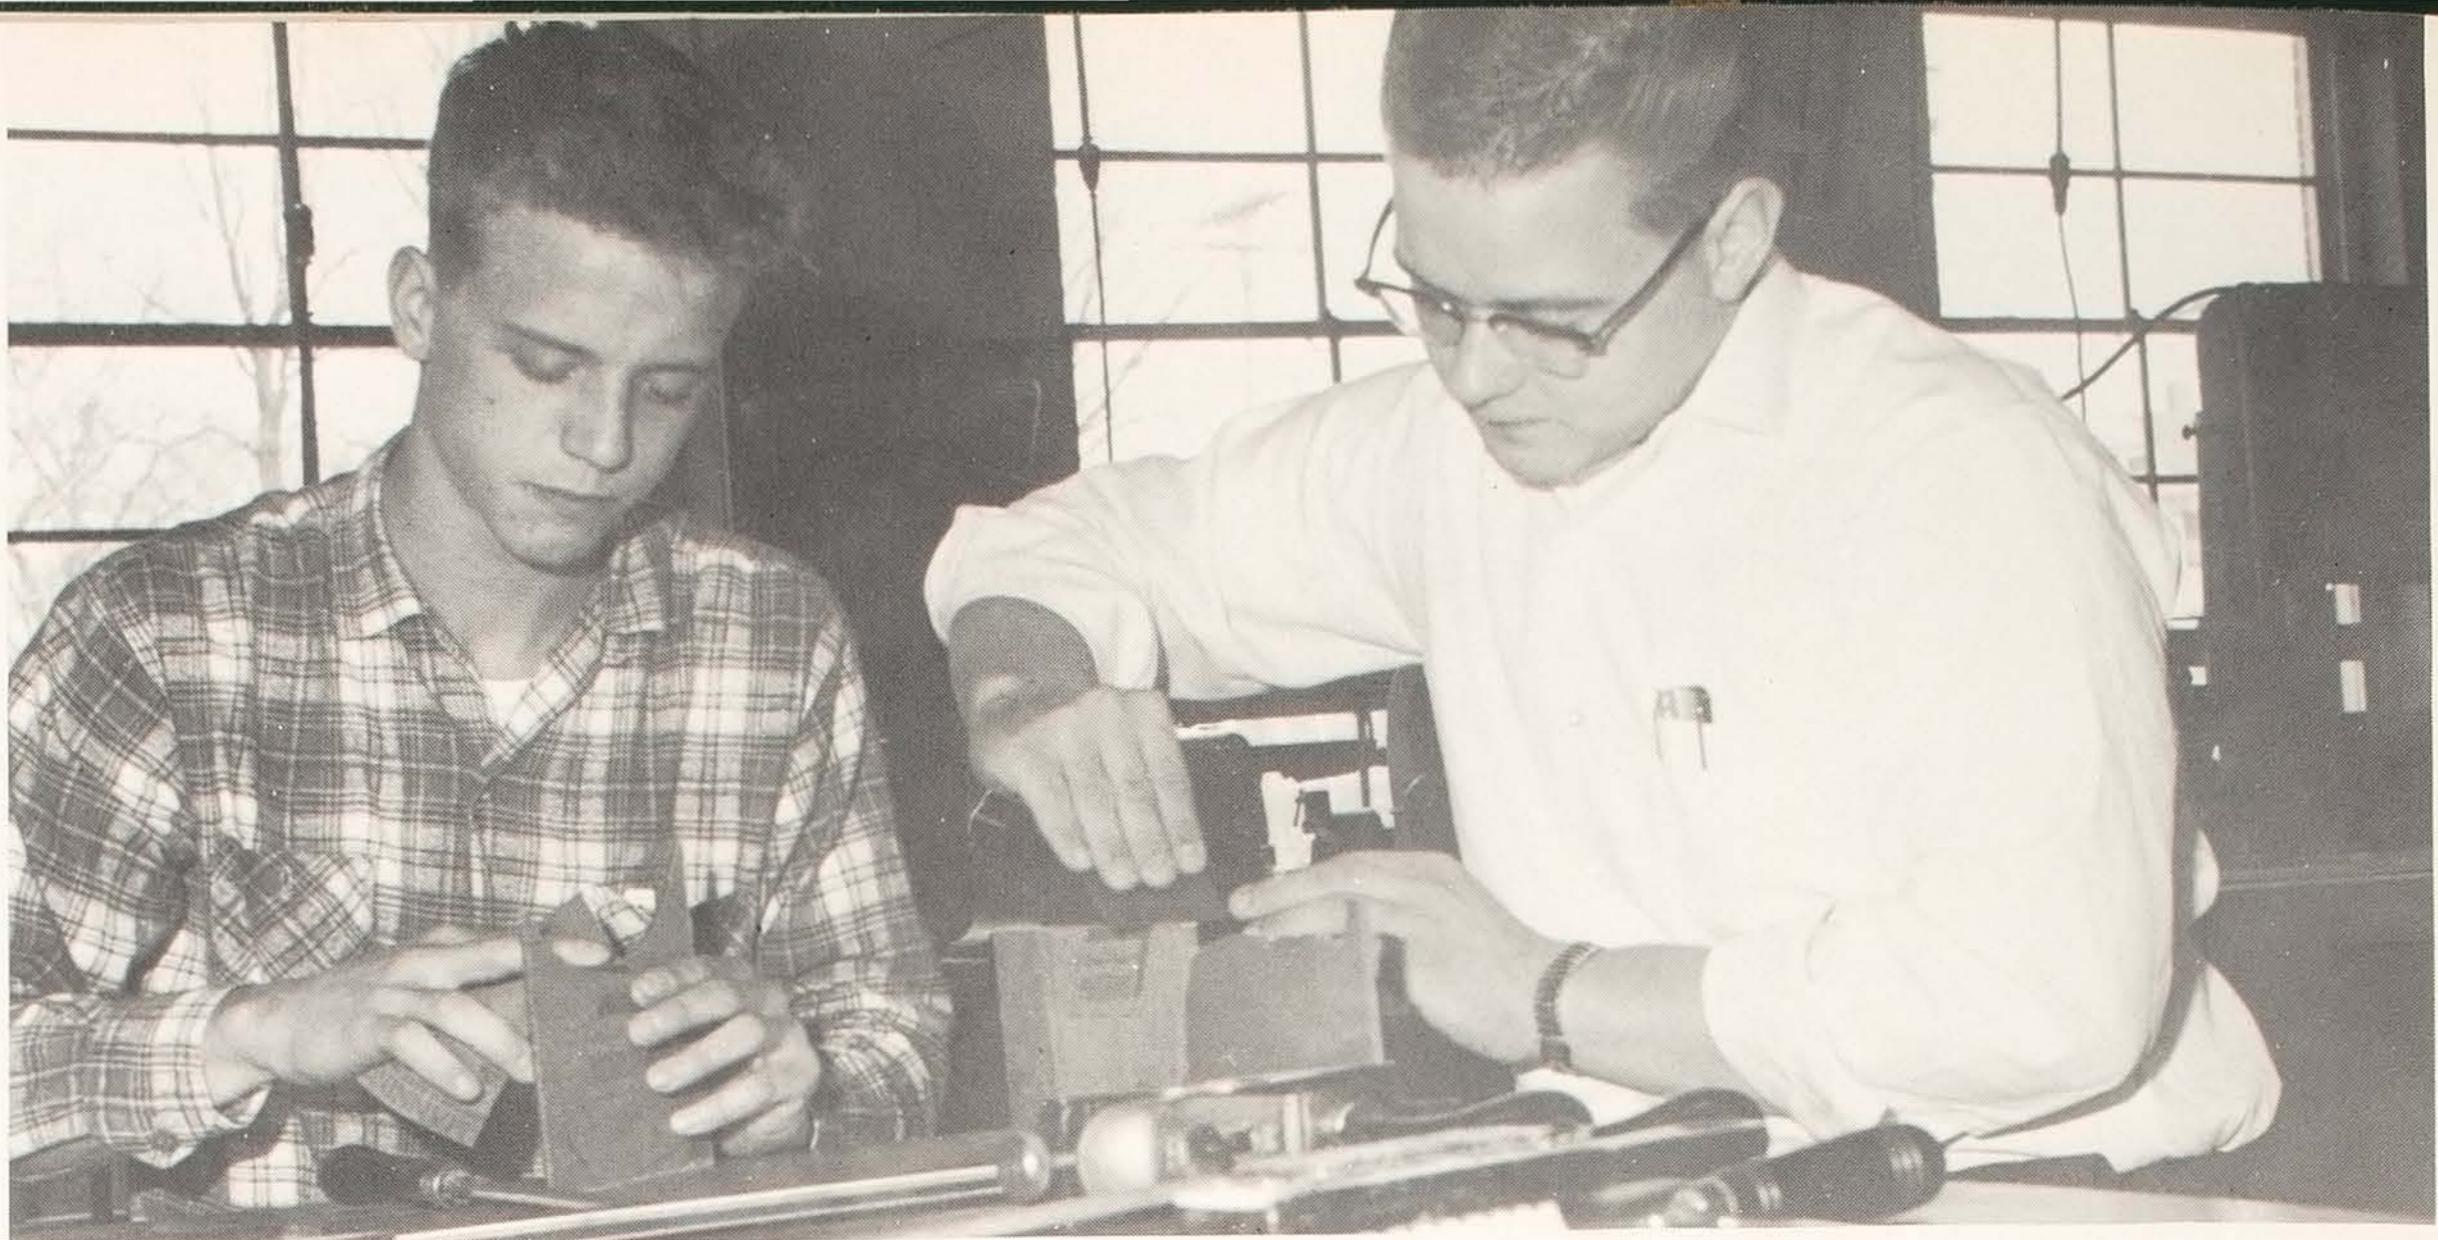

Business students found their education program both well-rounded and interesting this year. Besides emphasis on courses in office practice, typing, shorthand salesmanship, and business law, stress was placed upon learning business outside the classroom at meetings of the Business Club. The club had guest speakers from Bloomington-Normal business and industrial firms along with prominent business educators such as Mr. Claude Bowen of the Dale Carnegie Program who talked about public relations.

Students themselves also put on programs; Deanna Bowen, Susan Helderby, Judy Hotchkiss, and Shirley Neeley participated in a stimulating panel discussion on applying for a job.

U-High students can approve highly of their business education curriculum.

Ag, Industrial Arts Tops In Vocational Education

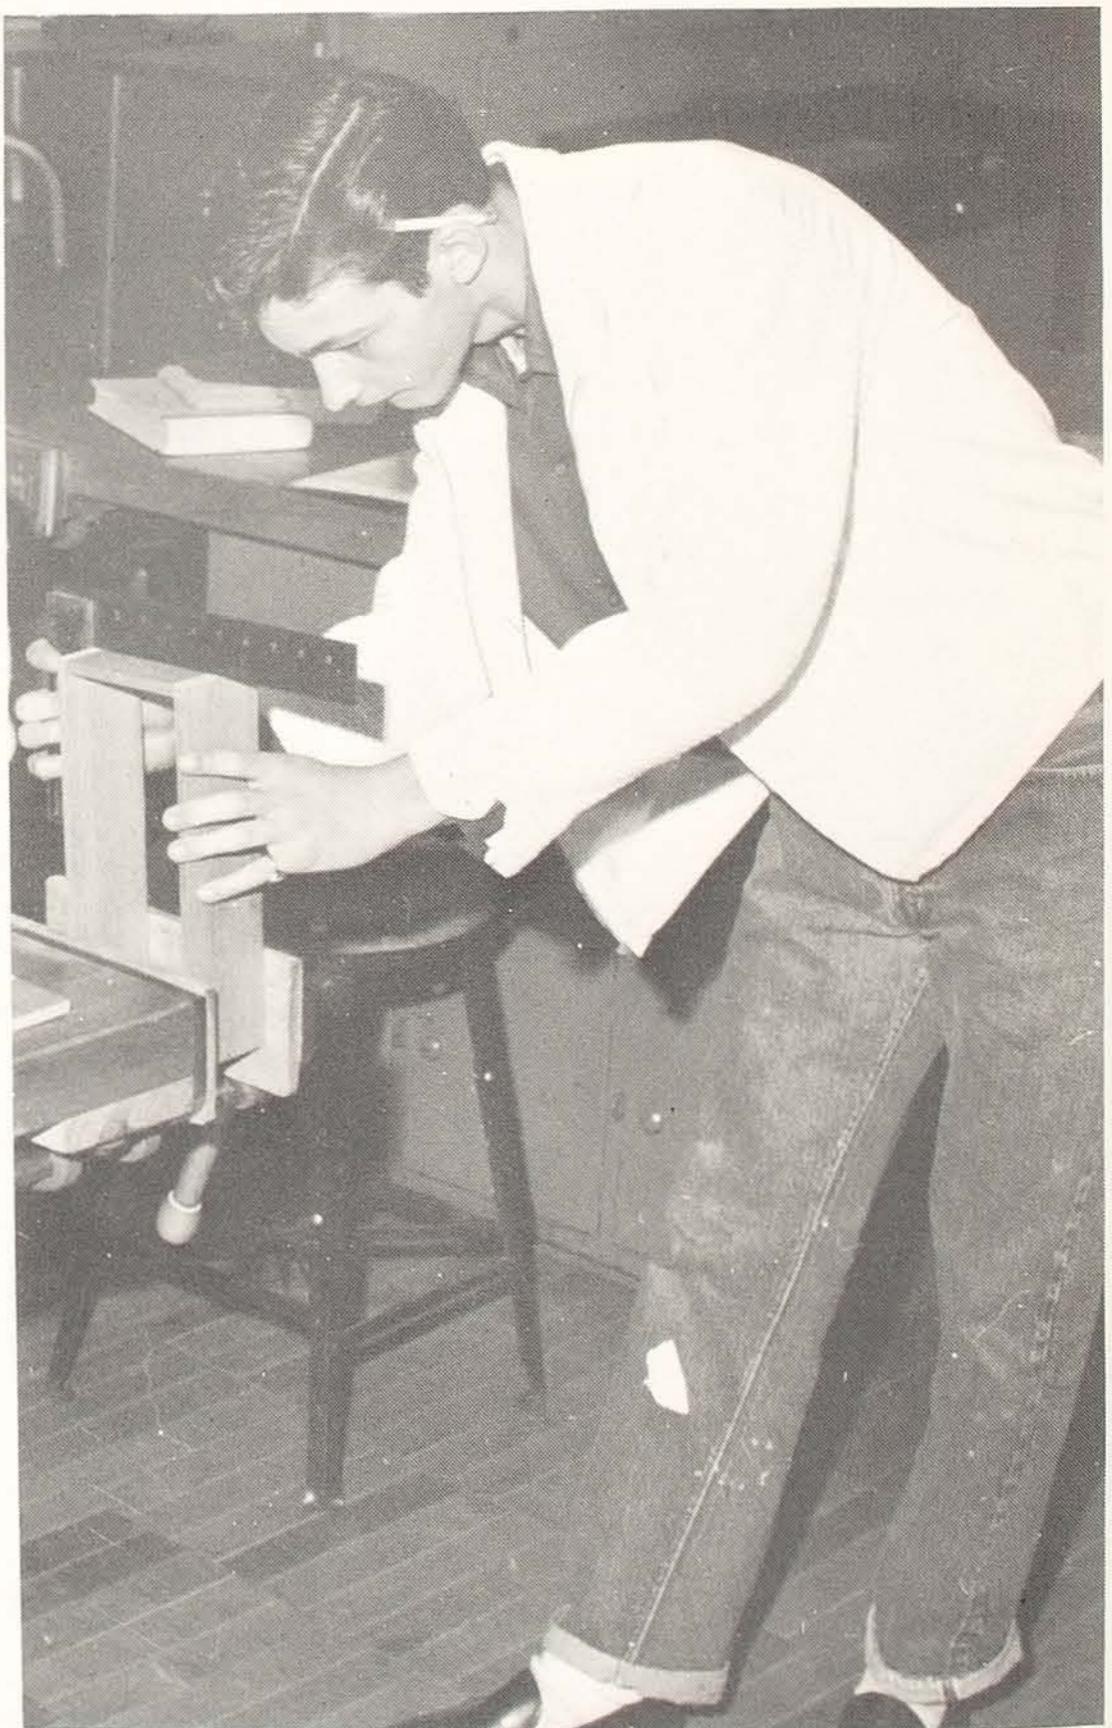

Experimentation and travel were the keynotes of the U-High agricultural courses. Students planted experimental crops and ran germination tests on treated and untreated seeds. Highlighting the year was a field trip to the International Livestock and Grain Show at Chicago.

The Industrial Arts program this year included mechanical drawing, printing, woodworking, metal working, electricity, and driver's education. The annual Spring Roundup, where projects were displayed, was the climax of Industrial Arts activity.

Bowling and Swimming Added To Co-rec Schedule

Swimming was added as a required course for all students. Bowling after school and swimming on Saturday were offered as co-recreational enjoyment.

In the spring the freshman girls had a chance to show what they had learned in their dance classes by presenting a modern dance program along with the annual style show. Their overnight camping trip gave them a chance to use the skills they had learned in the camping and camp craft units.

Miss Connell Retires After 33 Years Of Service

The addition of several teachers was the main highlight in the foreign language department. Mrs. Mini, French, and Mrs. Oberlander, Spanish, are two of the new arrivals. A third, Dr. Frank D. Horvay is the new head of the department. Mr. Horvay believes in a strong foreign language program in high school to permit further growth in college. This is a nation-wide trend, and U-High kept pace by offering Latin 1, 2, 3; Spanish 1, 2, 3; and French 1, 2, 3. A special French 1 class was offered to students who have already had some French in Metcalf. In keeping with our leadership, Russian and German will be added next year.

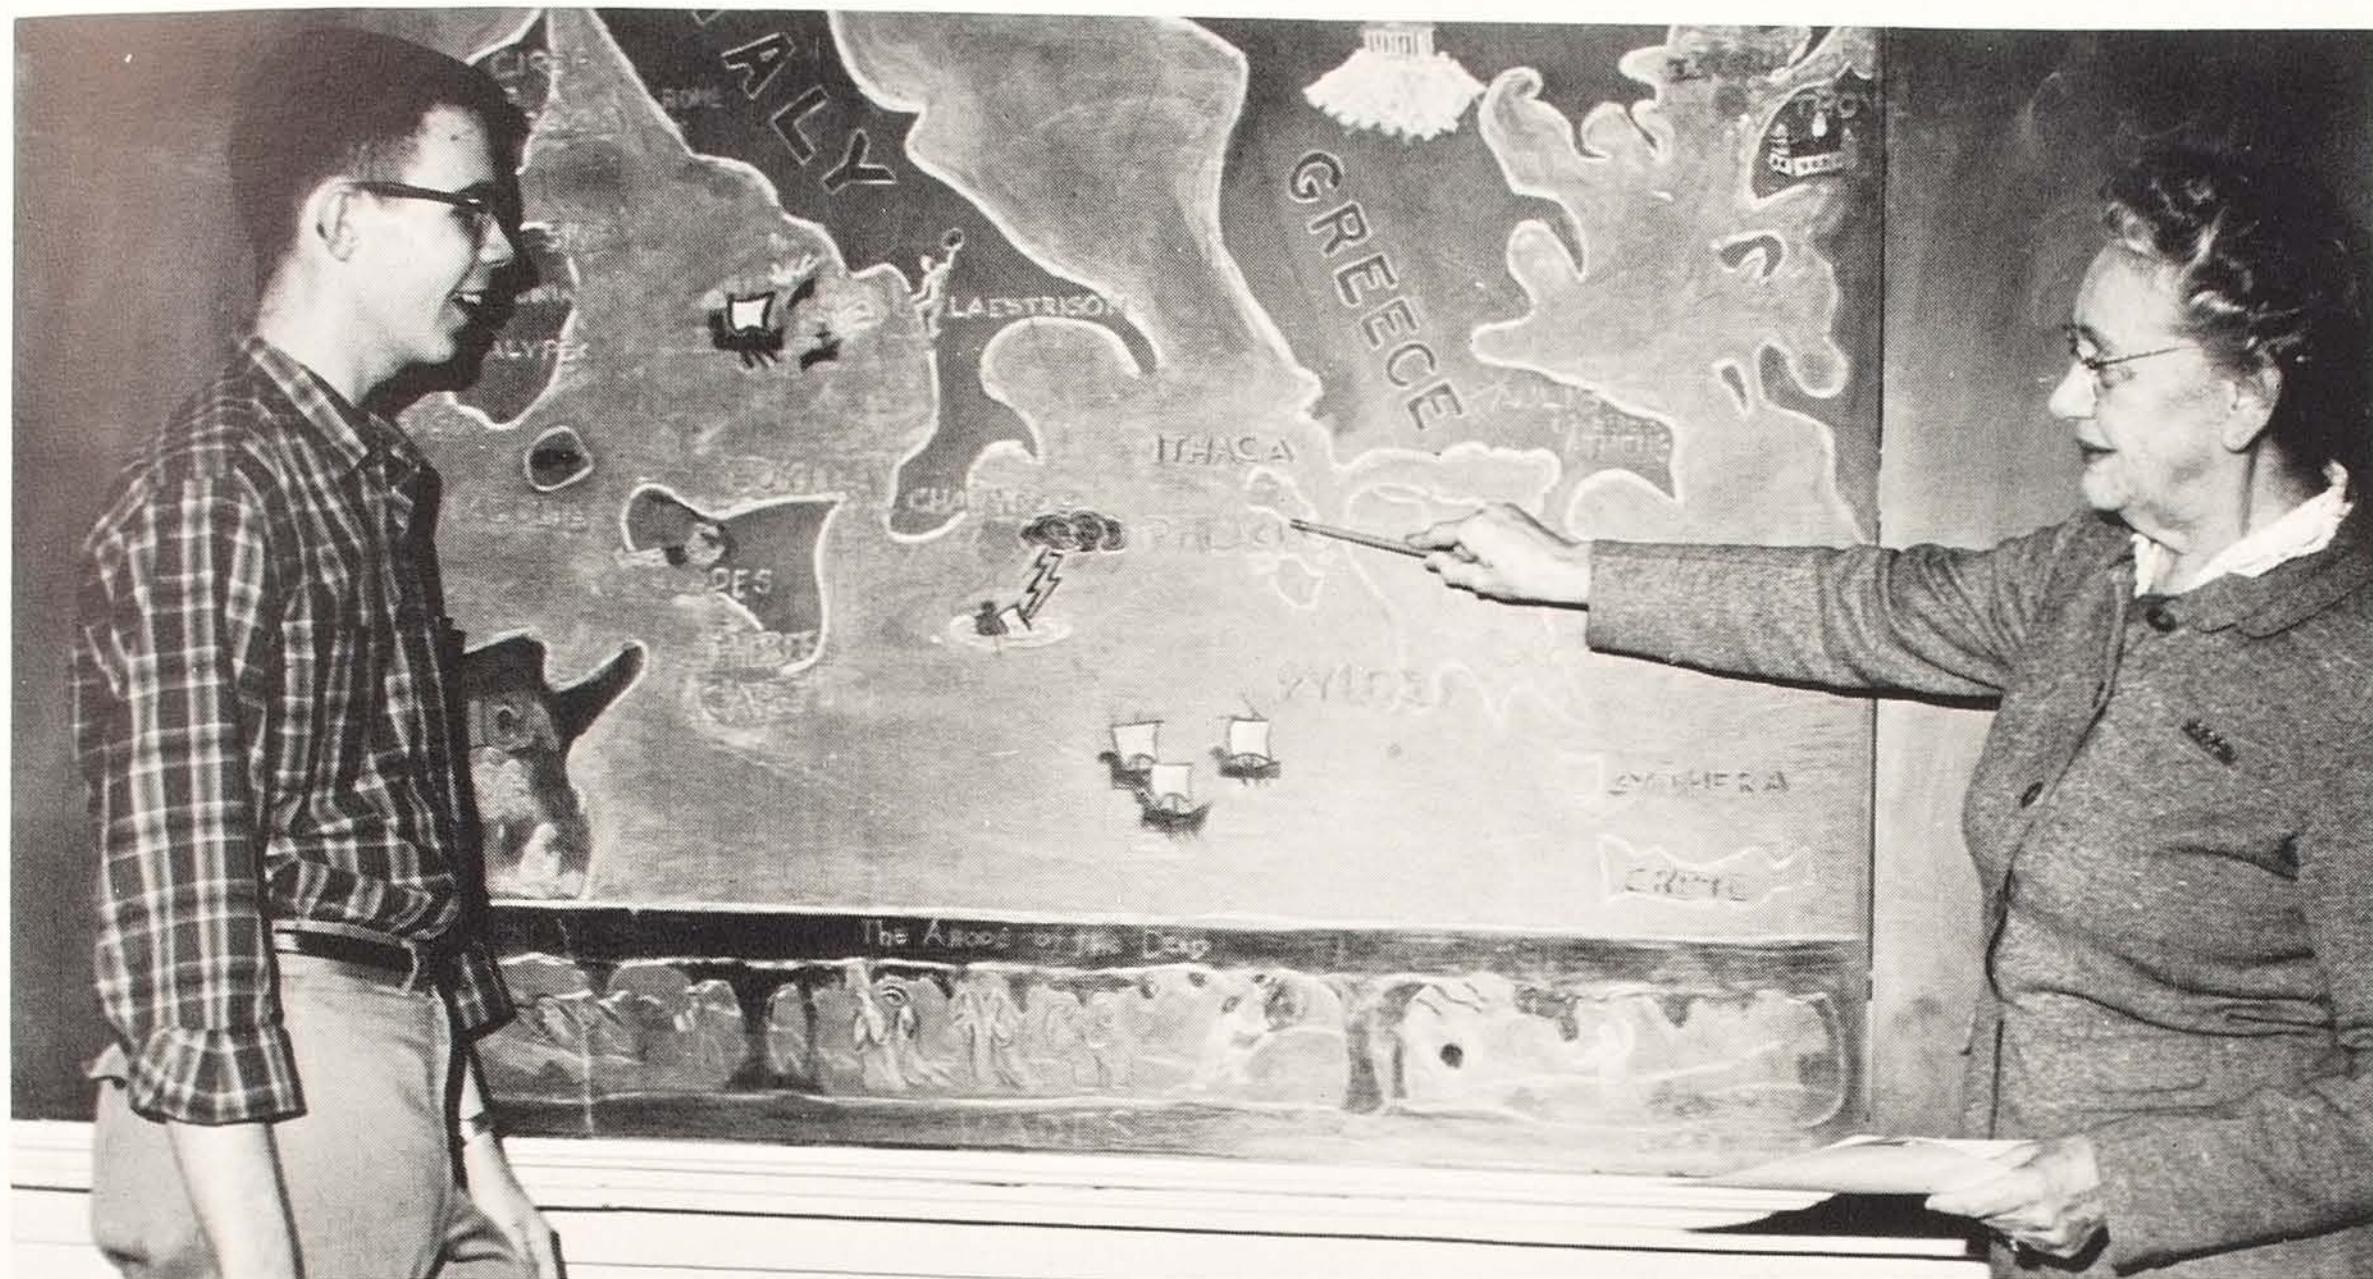

One teacher will be leaving the department this year. Miss Connell is retiring after thirty-three years of dedicated service.

New Plan Added To The English Curriculum

Freshman Paul Hixson and Miss Stroud trail Odysseus to Ithaca in their tour of Greek mythology.

The English department at U. High offers an interesting and varied program to the students. It introduces them to some of world's great literature, trains them in the fundamentals of grammar, and teaches them how to express themselves clearly in writing.

This year a new plan was added to the curriculum. Sophomore students who are advanced in grammar and writing are allowed to skip the first semester of English II and instead take journalism on the recommendation of their freshman teacher. Four students met the requirements of the plan and successfully carried it out.

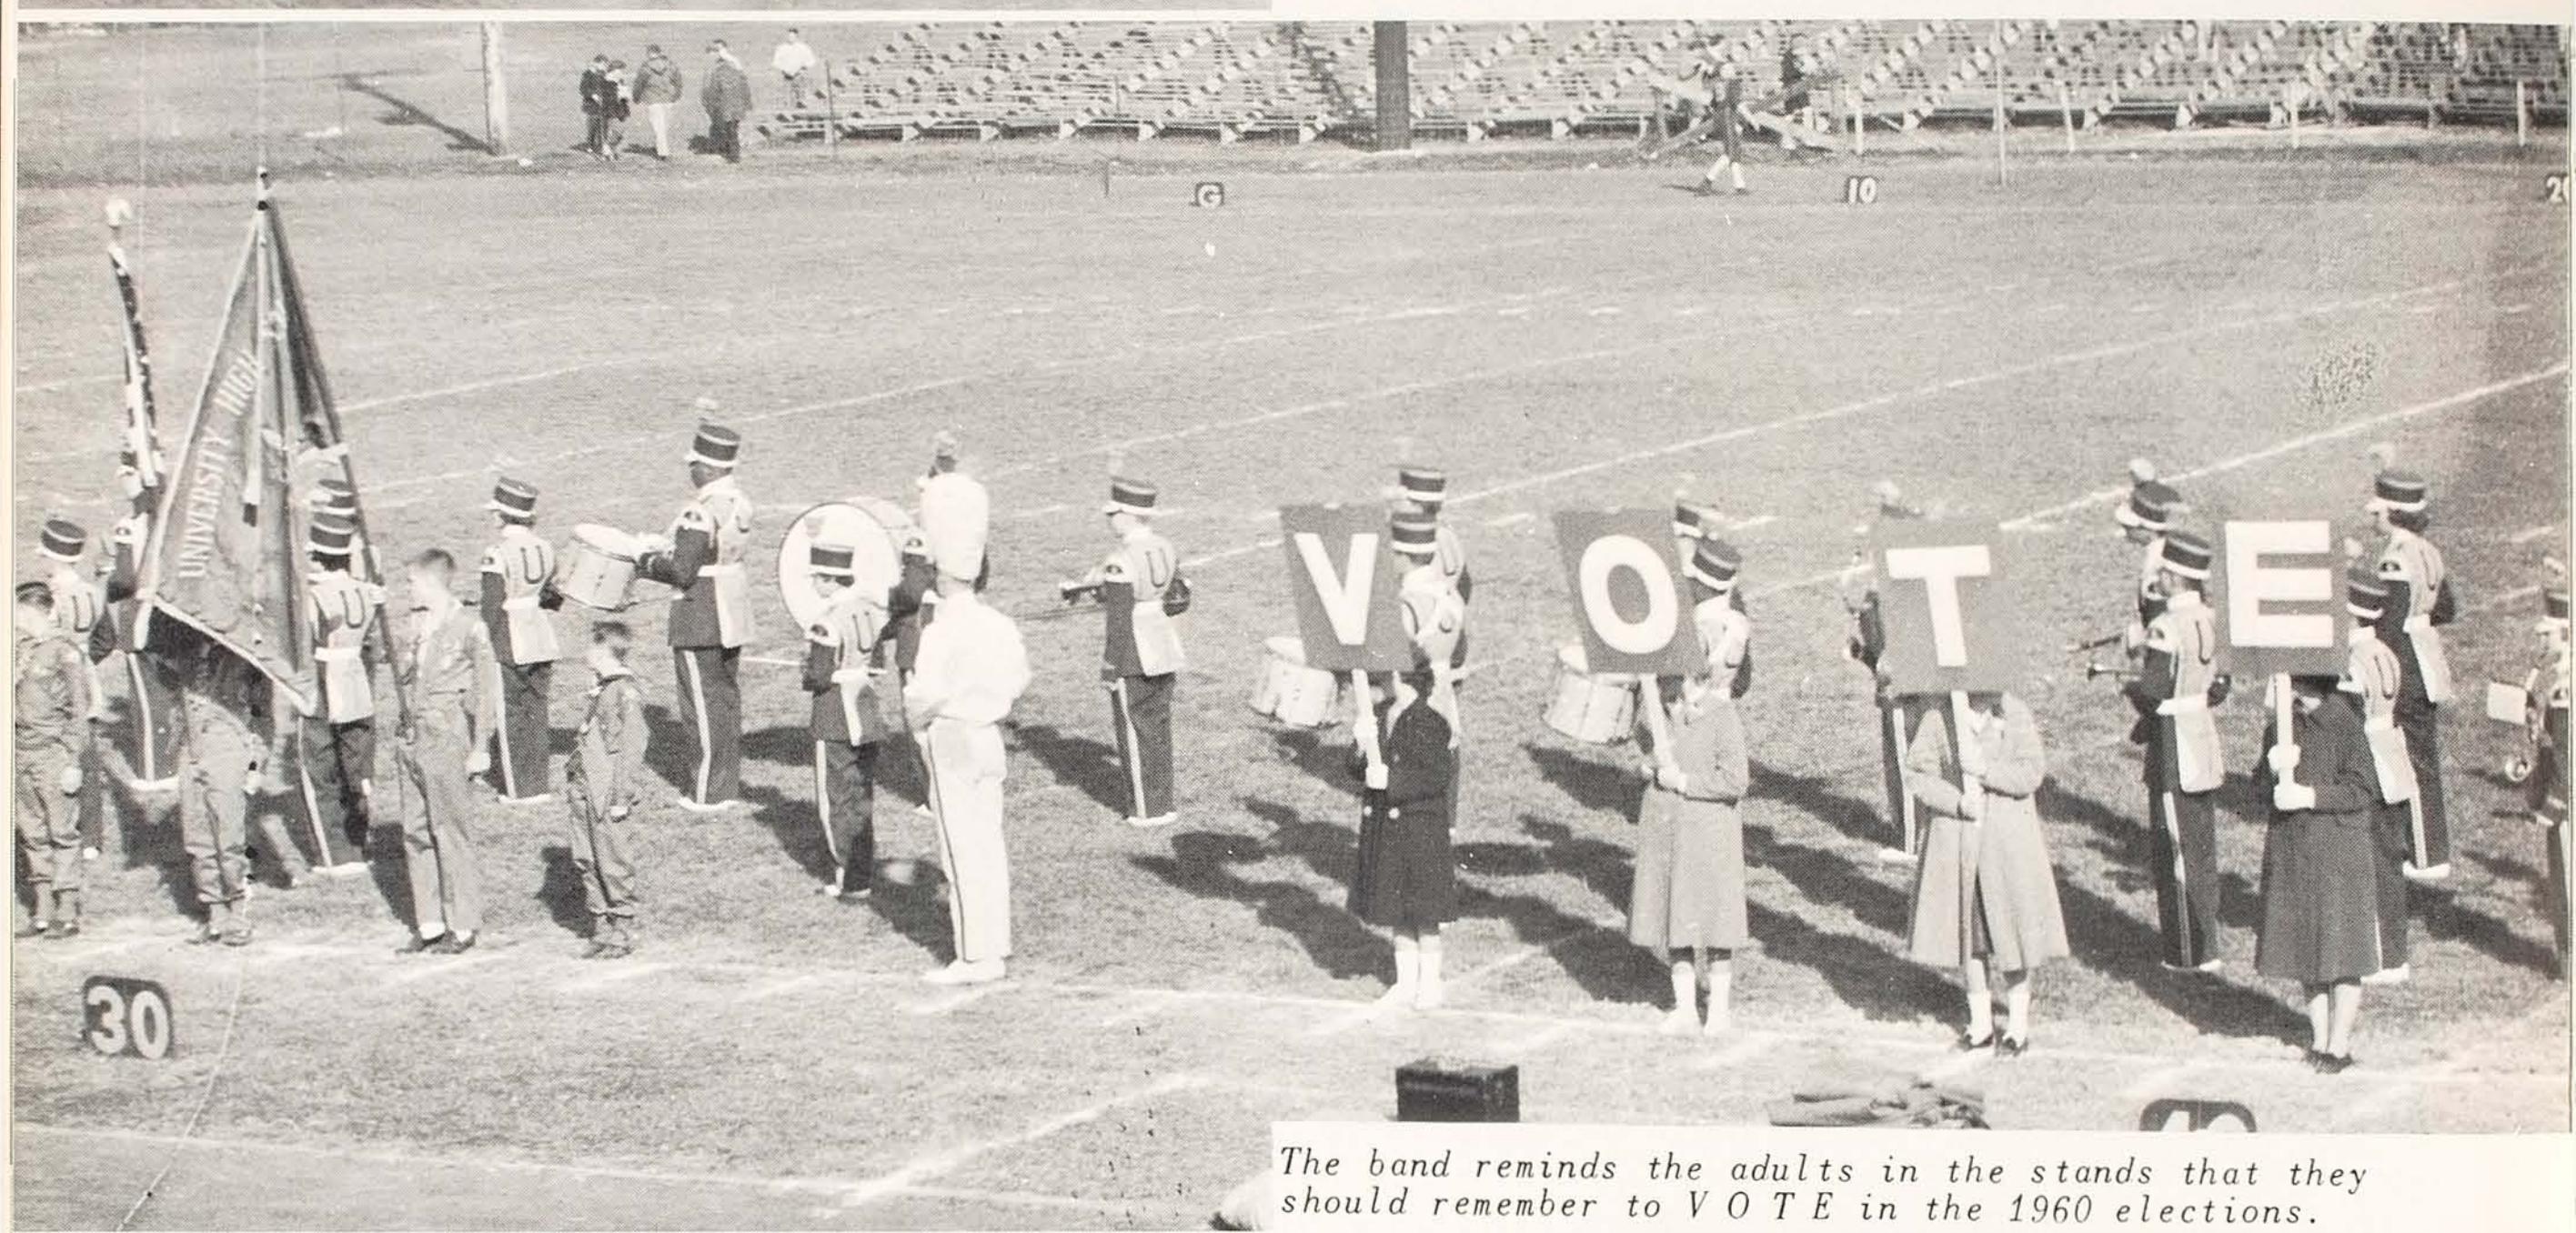

Every spring the Bernalillo Williams Cup is awarded to the junior who has done the most outstanding writing that year. This cup has a great significance to the U. High students. Miss Williams, after whom the award is named, taught at our school for several years and died in February, 1959, while on the faculty.

Twelve Students Participate In Music Contest

April 15th was the District Music Contest. Ensembles participating were: a violin duet by Phyllis Thomson and Mary Ann Watkins, a flute solo by Jane Ryburn, a violin trio by Velma Kuntz, Jan Olson, and Sewall Phelps. string quartet by Sharon Blum, JoAnn Harris, David Kuntz, and Charlene Peithman, piano solos by Karen Charles and Steph White.

The orchestra, directed by Mr. Kuntz, as usual, gave it's first performance before Christmas vacation for the Metcalf Grade School. Later in the year the orchestra played in the annual Midwinter Concert.

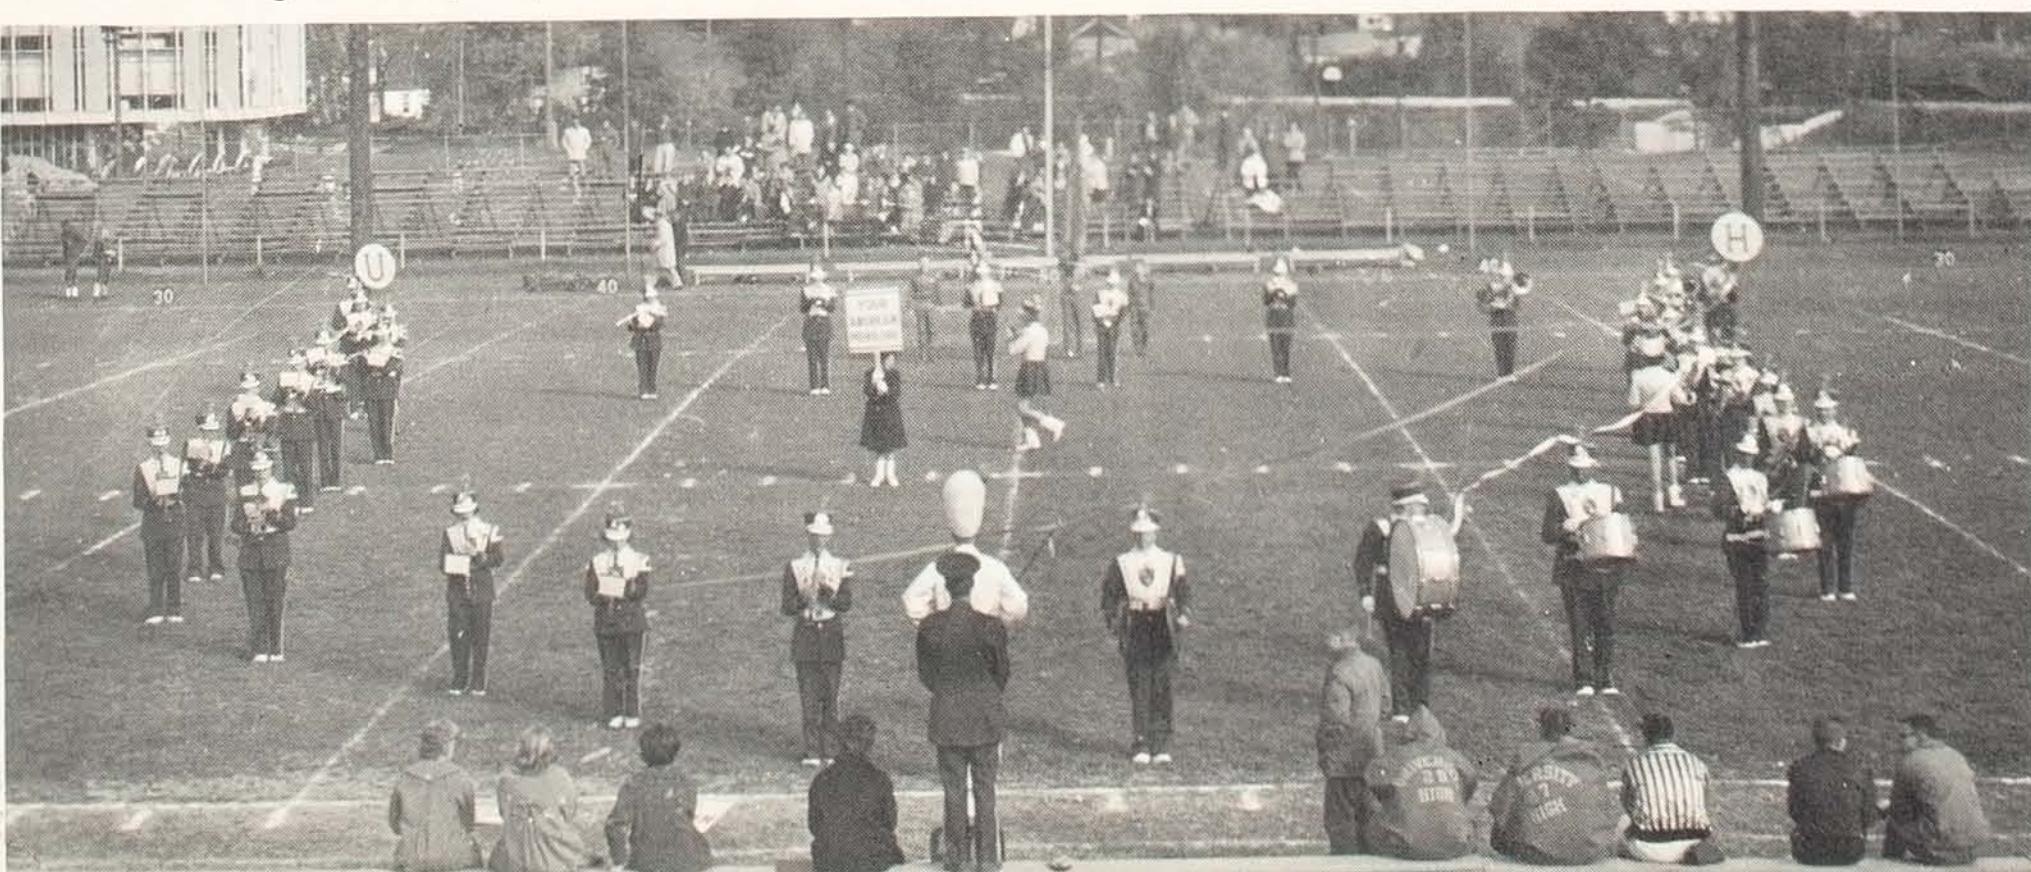

The last two performances of the school year were the Spring Concert and the Senior Commencement.

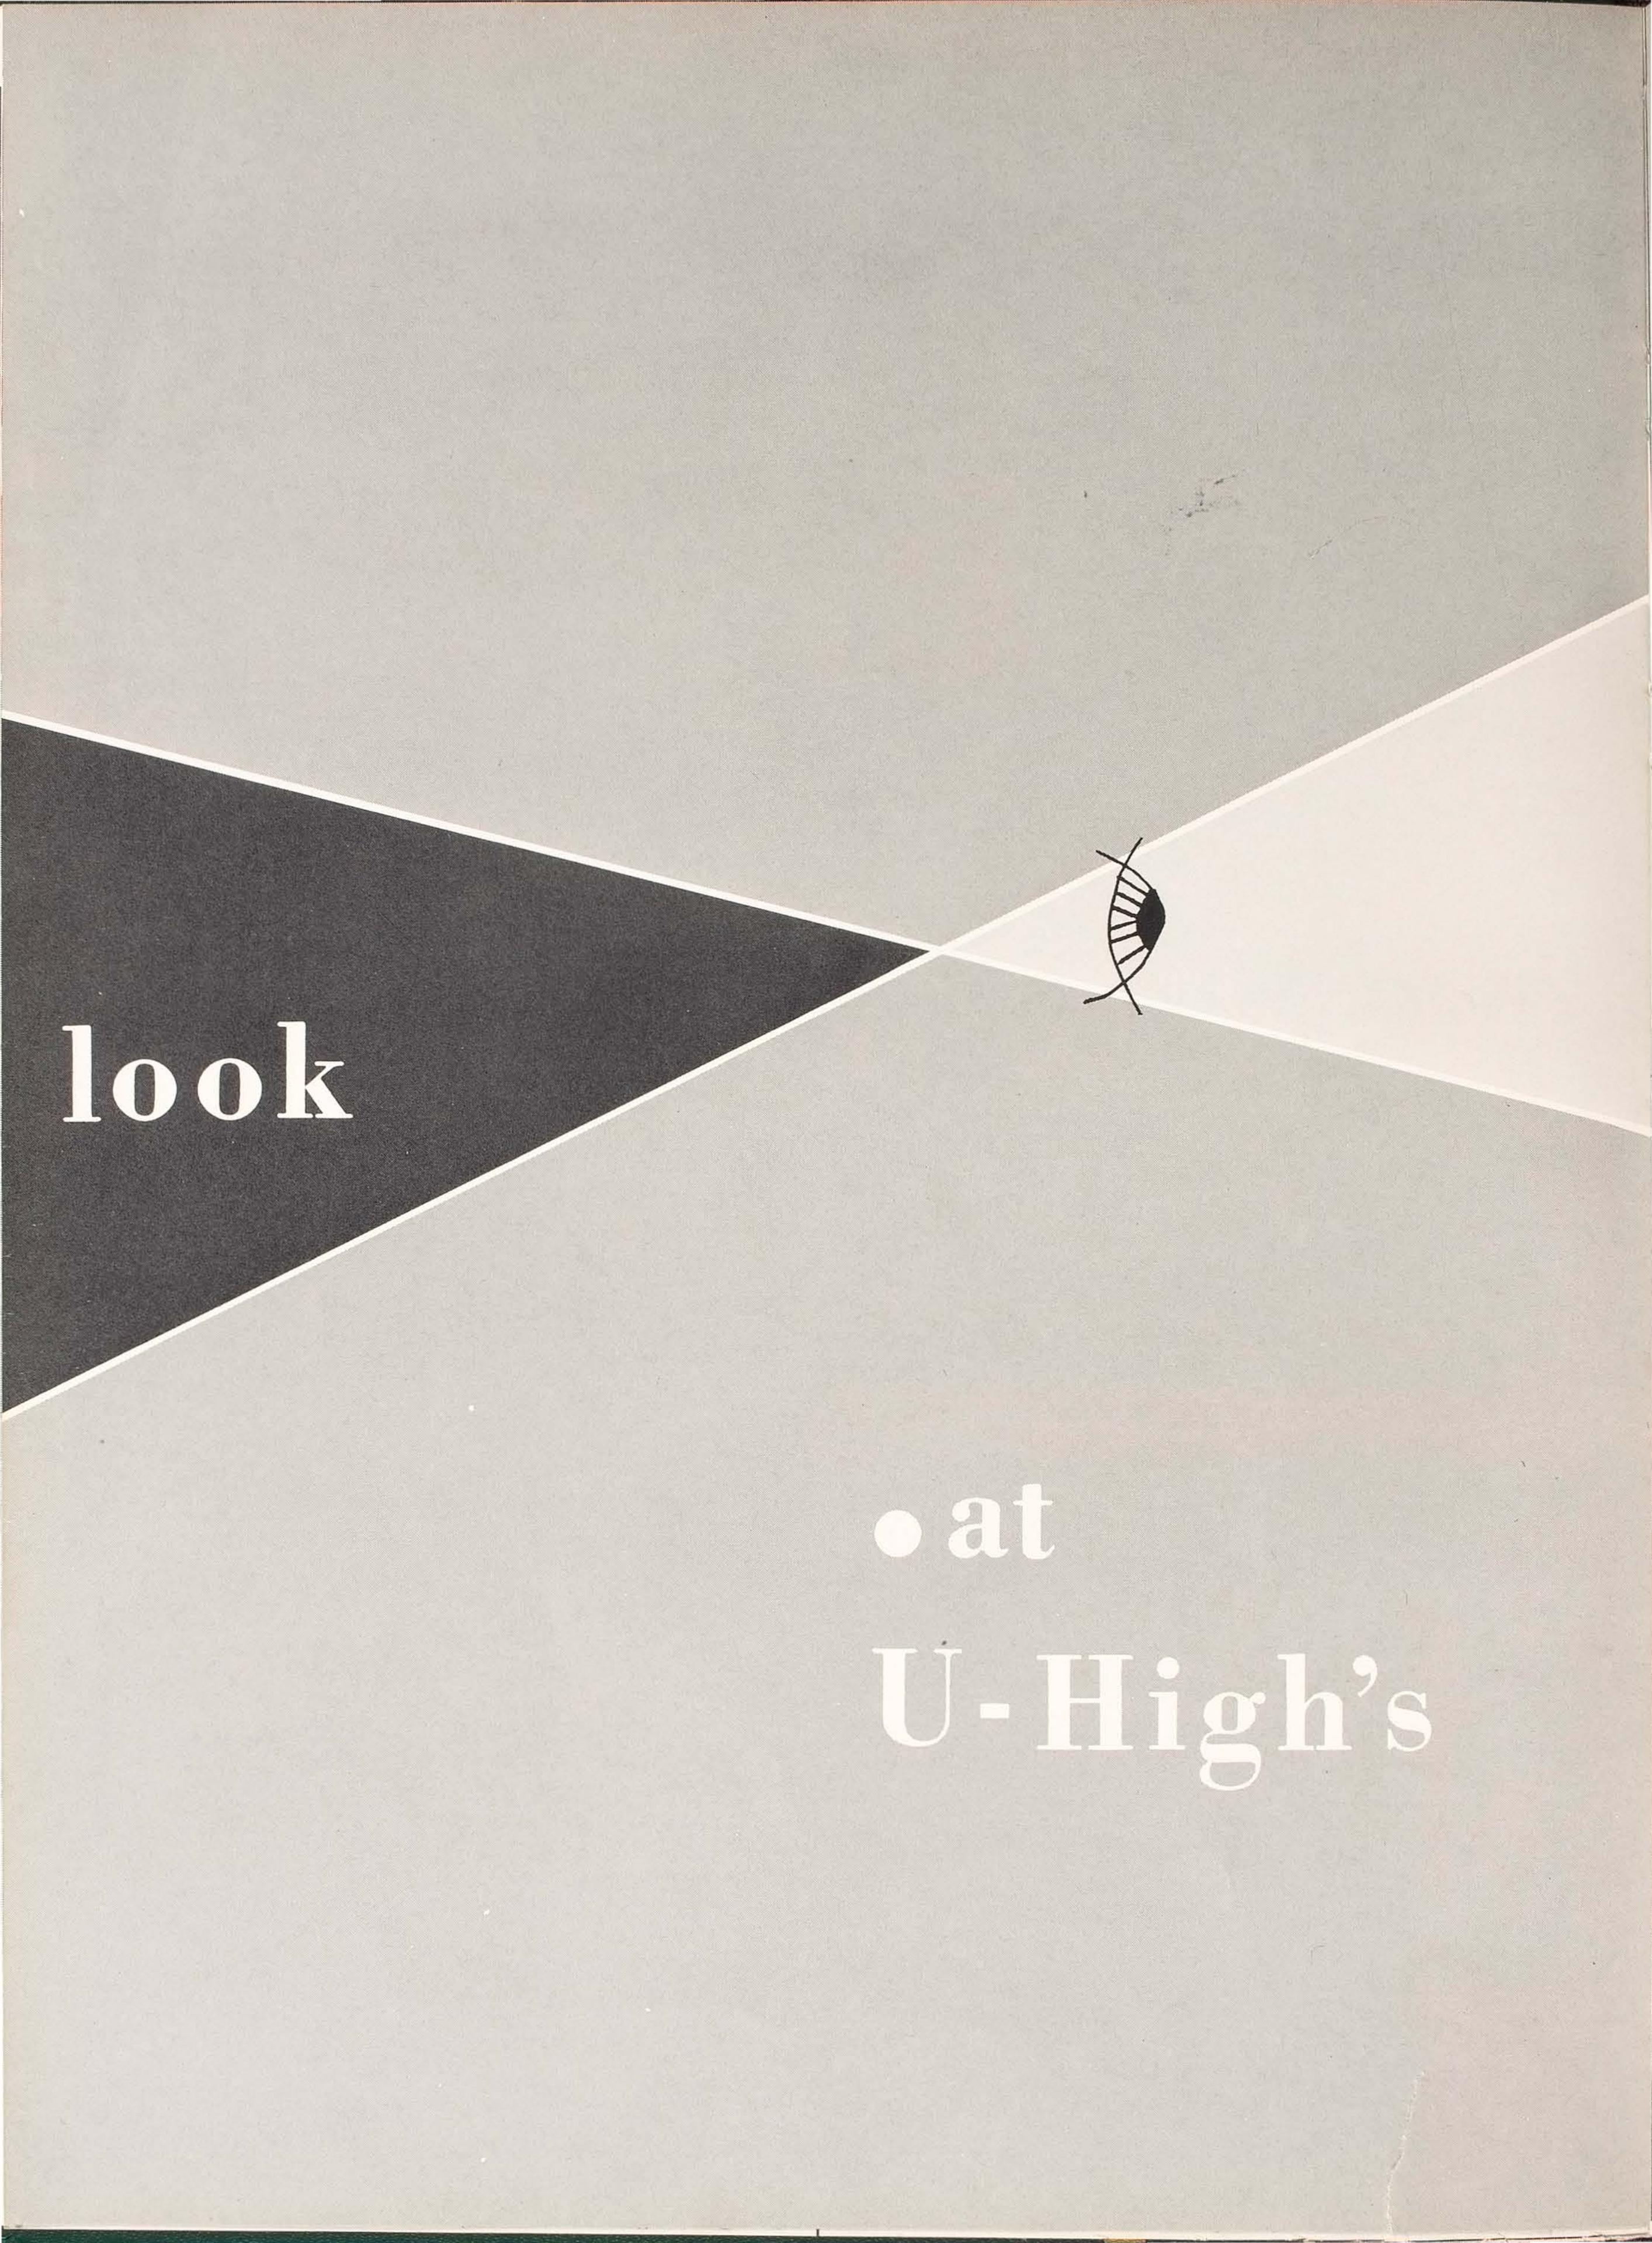

The first performance of the choruses this year was just before Christmas at an evening concert in Capen Auditorium.

Earlier, at Homecoming, the group was represented in the parade by a float in the form of a sailboat which optimistically used the slogan, "We'll Sail By 'Em."

In March the choruses attended the annual McLean County Music Festival.

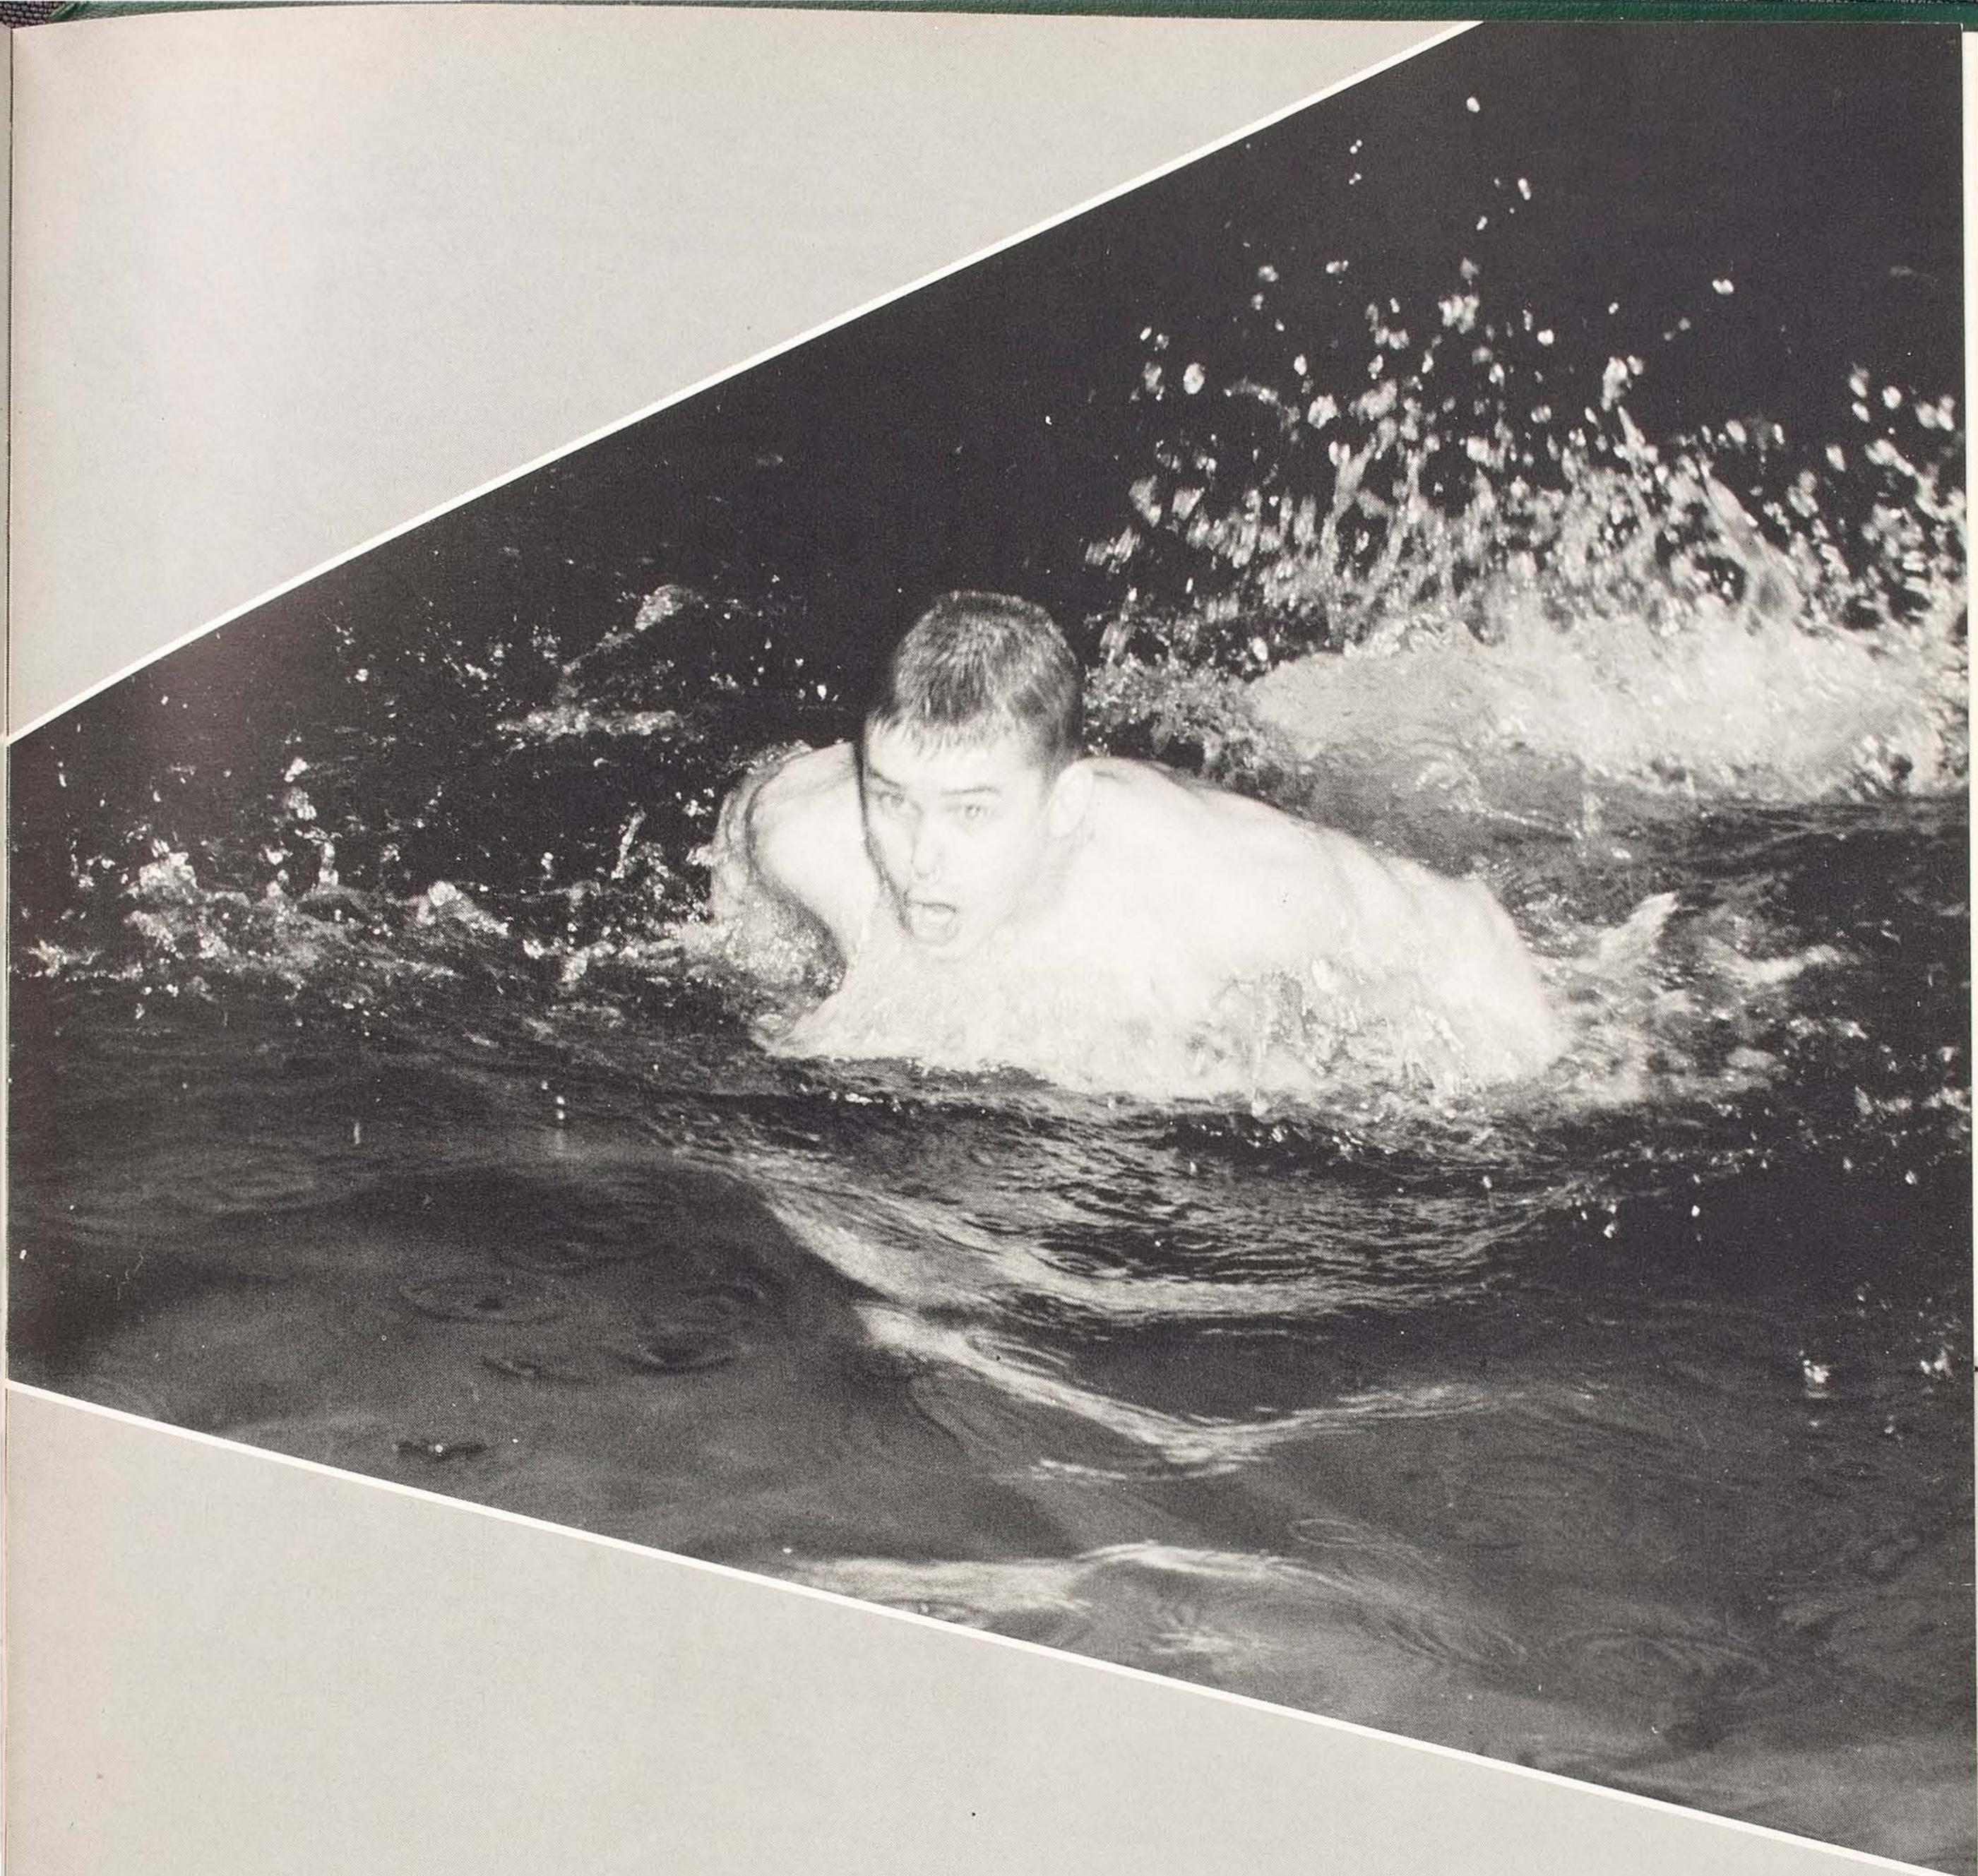

The marching band performs to the delight of spectators.

Varsity Has Discouraging Season, But Junior-Varsity

Coach Butt shows disgust while Ken Jackson and Mr. Scott show concern.

The 1960 football season got off to a promising start when U-High and Monticello clashed on McCormick Field. Although U-High lost by one touchdown, Coach Jack Butts said the prospects for a good season looked bright. Hopes began to fade during the following weeks when the Green and Gold dropped three more games in succession. There were bright spots though. The Pioneers always fought their opponents to the last minute and were never outscored in the second half. Then came the double conference game with Trinity. Before a large crowd the Pioneers surprised everyone by dominating the Saints throughout the game and coming out with their first Intercity and Corn Belt victories of the year. The Pioneers dropped the Homecoming Game but came back two weeks later to beat Eureka in a strong offensive bout. The season ended a week later with a hard fought loss to the Ironmen on Truman Keys Field. Kim Butts, Harry Menton, and Rusty Mitzner were voted to the Intercity All-Star team at the close of the season.

Although the Pioneers finished the season lacking an impressive string of victories, they succeeded in ending the year with a startling victory over Washington. They also went on to win their first game of the tournament over El Faso.

The hard-working Pioneers were victorious in three of the first five games, but then they initiated a losing spree which remained with them until the Washington game.

Coach Scott played four seniors throughout the year who definitely will be missed in the coming season. They are Marvin Kiesewetter, Jim Greer, Harry Menton, and Barry Johnson. The others constituting the squad were Gene Lee, the team's leading scorer, Gary Anderson, Bob Wenzel, Dick Ashbrook, Rick Wade, and Ed Doran.

The team voted Jim Greer and Gene Lee honorary co-captains for the season.

The tip-off. Suspense—then joy for U-High.

The matmen started slowly but recovered in time to make their victory over Normal Community the highlight of the season.

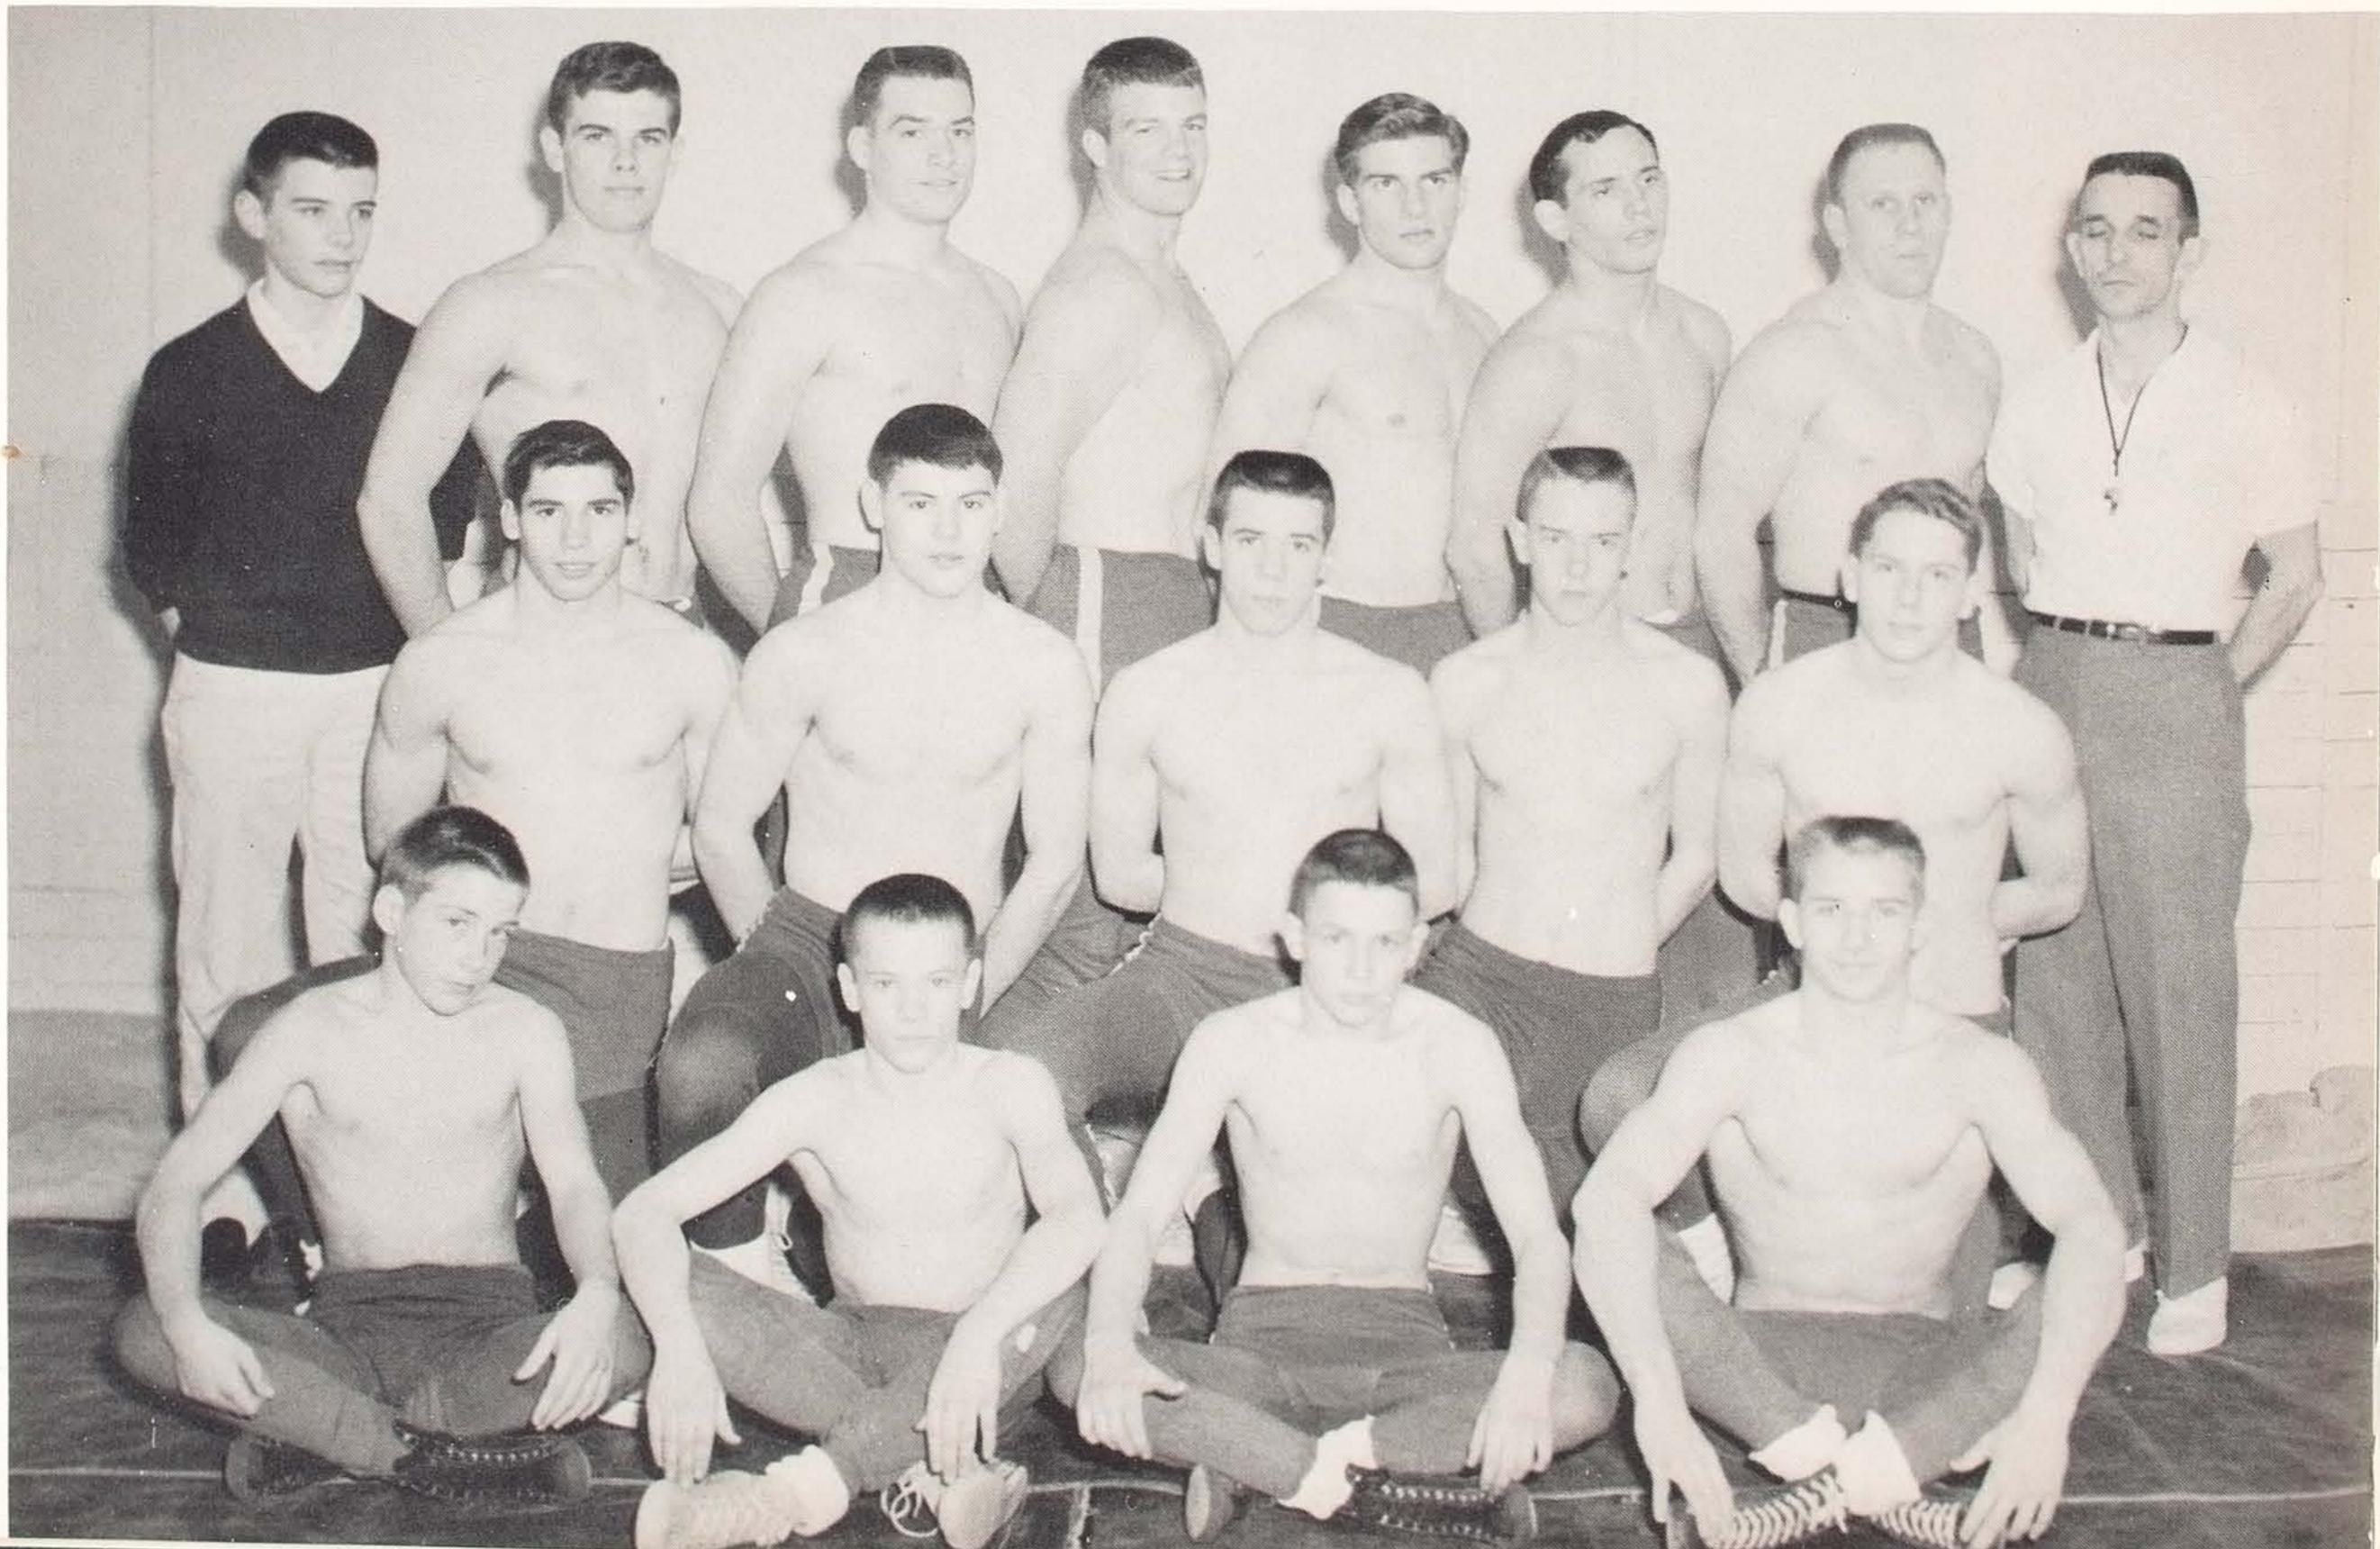

Arley Gillett, who had been U-High's first wrestling coach a number of years ago, returned to guide the team to a 4-6 record. The second annual U-High Christmas tournament found Jay Gillett, Dave Boaz, and Kim Butt placing for U-High.

At the district tournament, Dean Kunz won third place in the 165-pound division, and Randy Phillips won second place in the 154-pound class to go to the sectional. Kunz was elected honorary captain and Gillett most valuable at the end of the season.

Bob Briggs looks graceful in a high dive.

For the first time in its two year history the U-High swim team was one to be reckoned with. To a large extent, the reason for this was the great selection of talent plus the fine coaching of Archie Harris. Although the team won only three out of eight contests, it also tied three and the competition was always rough. The team was fourth in the district meet out of thirteen teams. Al Sherer and Bill Soper went to the State Meet. Other outstanding swimmers on the team were Eric Fruin, Steve Irwin, and John Heiden.

Although the services of graduating senior John Heiden will sorely be missed, the large roster of underclass lettermen should make the team formidable for some time.

Teachers! Not only in the classroom, but anytime and any place that we needed them, they were right there. Their office doors were always open to us, whether it was to chat or change a schedule or get help in solving a problem.

In the classroom they tried to get their point across to us. Maybe it was the stressing of the "eu" sound in French or the putting of only one cup of sugar in a cake. The outlines and notecards were a

CLASSES

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Sue Myers, secretary; Jim Greer, president; Lydia Cicciu, treasurer; John Stahly, vice president.

Seniors Leave Fine Academic, Speech Records

No one doubts that this year's senior class has contributed much to U-High. The class of 1961 has been outstanding academically; many of the members of the "top ten" have grades which would have made them valedictorians in former classes. Royal Bartrum, the highest ranking senior, is one of the ten thousand seniors in the United States who are Merit Scholarship finalists.

In speech, seniors are by far the best in the school's history; they have been the most prominent reason for the U-High speech team's winning seven trophies in the past three years. Royal Bartrum and Mac Holzer pushed the debate team to sixth in the state last year. Leonard O'Brian, Sewall Phelps, Sherian Wilson, Susan Laubaugh, Donna Karr, Patty Irwin, and Judy Wright paced the speakers to many victories. Our most outstanding speaker, Barry Johnson, won the NFL state title in original oration and will go to Pittsburgh for the national finals.

The story was the same in other areas. In sports, Harry Menton set an Intercity low hurdle record last year. Ron Anson topped Pioneer musicians with dazzling drum performances. In the opinion of many, the class of 1961 is the best ever.

Sue Hyde found that skiing can make one 40 minutes late to school. But it's fun!

Paul Grethey is touched by John Stahly's lament in the seniors' "Because Their Hearts Were Pure."

Money Making Juniors Await Their First Prom

The junior class, as usual, had a very busy year and the main objective, as it always has been, was to make enough money to pay for the Junior-Senior Prom.

The junior class went about this by setting up snack counters at all U-High games, selling at noon hour to hungry students, and putting on the junior class play, "Time Out for Ginger," which was a great success. Something new was added which aided the juniors in their money making schemes. Candy machines, milk machines and pop machines were all set up in the Pioneer Lounge and, of course, this advanced the budget. Seldom did an hour go by that hungry students did not rush for the lounge. All in all, the juniors had a very busy and successful year, making a total of $1200.

Sophomores Plan Trip to Historic Hannibal

The 1960-61 school year was given a good start by the class of 1963. Two of the sophomore homerooms made good showings in the Homecoming parade. It was too bad that others were not given a first for the enthusiasm which won for them an escorted trip to the Normal police station.

School spirit was boosted by an undefeated Frosh-Soph football season which led to great expectations for U-High's next two seasons. Naturally, not all the credit for a successful year can go to the boys. The girls really pitched in and made the Winter

Formal more profitable than ever before.

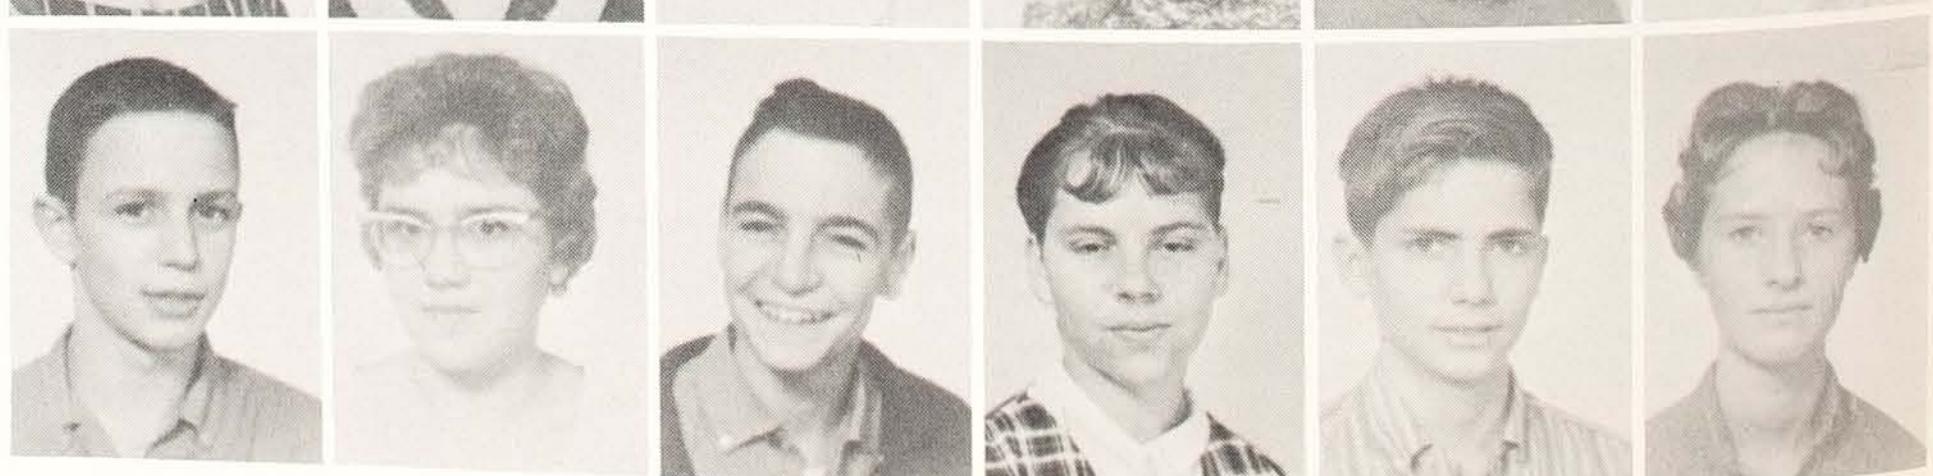

Although the sophomores did not receive the clothing drive award as they did last year, they showed more progress than any other class in the last hour with thirteen bags of clothes. They beat the freshman class by one bag of clothing.

Most of the sophomores are pleased with the class rings chosen by the ring committee. A majority of the committee were girls. Now we all look forward to a possible trip to Hannibal, our last fling before penny-pinching next year.

Frosh Get Acquainted at Pizza Party

The freshman class was not the largest in U-High history, but its members will be quick to tell you that it has quality.

Brains and brawn characterized two of their achievements. After each six weeks grading period, the freshman class had more names on the honor roll than any other class. The whole school was proud of this achievement. In addition, the freshman basketball team, under the superior coaching of Mr. Carroll, made U-High history with its outstanding record of wins.

A pizza party was sponsored by the freshmen.

The chairman of the class sponsors, Mr. Carlock, helped with the plans for the successful party. A well-balanced program was presented and, of course, pizza was served.

The class officers for the year were Bill Soper, president; Jackie Griffith, vice president; Marge Schroeder, secretary; and Mike McKnight, treasurer.

Other homeroom supervisors, who served as co-sponsors for the class were Miss Huggins, Mrs. Crank, Mr. Carroll, Mr. Broome, and Mr. Brubeck.

The Editor Looks at U-High

University High School is an opportunity to excel, an opportunity found in few other Illinois high schools. U-High offers the extensive academic program, far reaching extracurricular life, and well trained teaching staff of a large progressive secondary school. But at the same time it affords small classes and individual attention--blessings unheard of in schools of big enrollment.

Yes, U-High provides an education which Plato would regard highly. The success of its graduates depends to a great extent upon their ability and desire to use the model education supplied.

Thespians Shine in "All My Sons"

"All My Sons," a drama of retribution set in a suburban backyard, was staged by Harlequin-Thespians April 28. The play is deep and involves a conflict. On one side of its conflict is a cheating war contractor whose desire to make money for his family caused him to ship defective airplane engines. On the other side is his son, an idealistic war veteran who condemned this money-loving "practicality" as murder. Bill Pfister played the father and Royal Bartrum, the son. The neurotic mother was portrayed by Phyllis Thomson. Other parts were taken by Donna Karr, John Hodge, Sewall Phelps, Judy Wright, Frank Philpot, Kay Yoder, and Randy Freedlund.

RIGHT: It's make-up time for cast members and crew.

Miss Mary Webb

The Business Club spent an active year under the leadership of its officers and sponsor. Officers were Susan Myers, president; Marilyn Garrison, vice president; and Phyllis Thomson, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Doris Crank was sponsor.

Programs included talks on income tax, insurance, and the Dale Carnegie courses; there were skits and demonstrations by the members. Students from the other high schools were invited to hear the representative from the Better Business Bureau.

After 31 years on the ISNU campus, Miss Mary Webb, business education teacher, retired from the faculty this year.

The U. High chapter of the National Forensic League held its second annual initiation this year to recognize new members and to present advanced degrees to several members. Royal Bartrum, president of the NFL chapter for the year, was presented an award as the outstanding senior in speech activities during the past year. Each of the graduating seniors was honored and the 1960-61 debate team consisting of Mac Holzer, Frank Allen Philpot, Royal Bartrum, and Ted Sands was recognized.

Barry Johnson and Leonard O'Brian presented original orations they had used during contests this year. Nancy Washburn read the prose selection she entered in district competition, and Jim Bliss played a trumpet solo.

New members initiated include Steve Bloomfield, Kay Brown, Paul McGinnes, Sue Dunn, Sue Hancock, Jean Vandervoort, Janet Frosser, Nancy McCannon, Marge Schroeder, Jackie Griffith, Dennis Soebbing, Jane Gleisner, Jim Bliss, Nancy Johnston, Judy Wright, Sherian Wilson, Leonard O'Brian, and Sewall Phelps.

New Members for NFL and Honor Society

Thursday morning, April 20, found four very happy mothers trying to wake up their sleepy daughters. They had wonderful news. Their daughters had been accepted in National Honor Society. Sue Hyde, Jane Ryburn, Phyllis Thomson, and Nancy Washburn were elated when they heard the news, then confusedly went to school and the first hour assembly. The next week was a flurry of activities for the pledges. The greedy actives were well supplied with candy and cookies. The climax of the initiation came at a formal induction party at Ginger Werts' home. The four pledges wrote papers on subjects the actives dreamed up. Biographies of Miss Stroud, Jesse Fell, Thomas Metcalf, and all the active members were presented. More ceremony, and then the pledges were greeted by the other members and faculty as full-fledged members of the Honor Society.

This was the fun of initiation, but there was more to it than that. Throughout the two weeks of initiation, the four pledges were constantly reminded of their responsibility to their school and community through scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

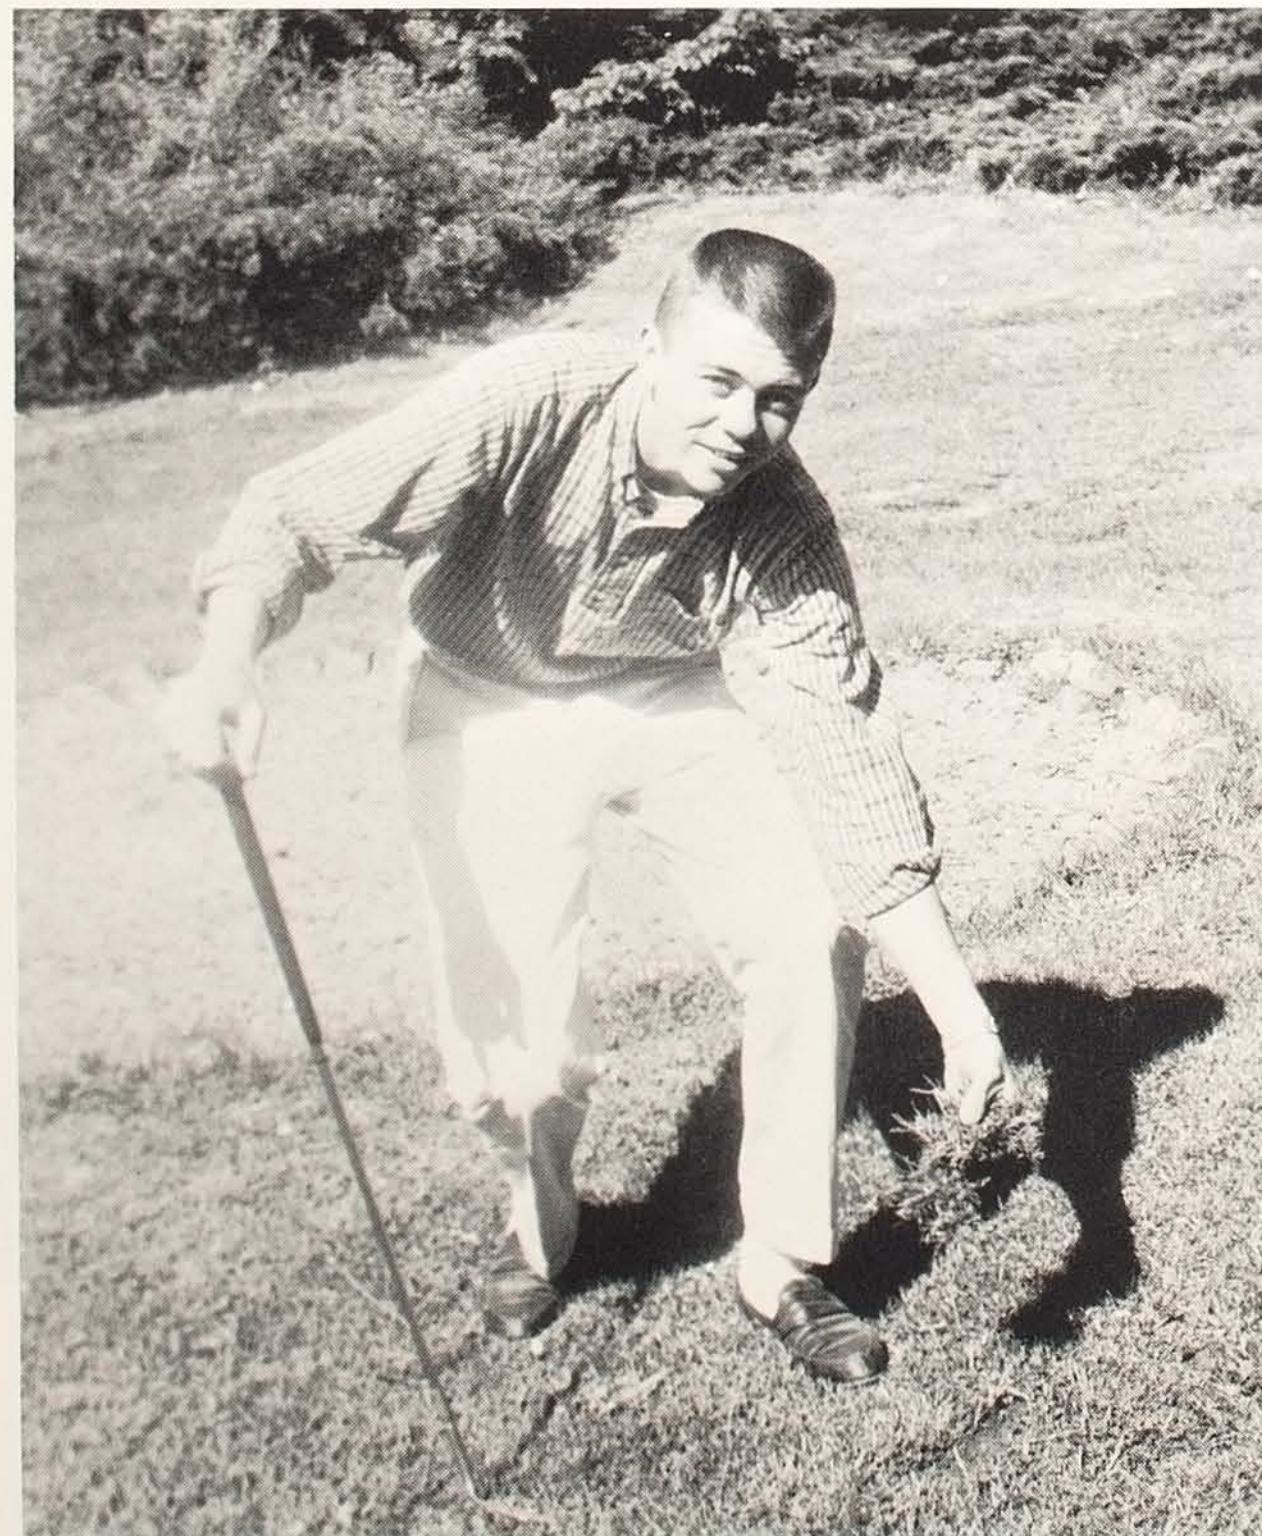

NEW HONOR SOCIETY MEMBERS: Phyllis Thomson, Nancy Washburn, Jane Ryburn, Sue Hyde.

Juniors Give the Best Prom Yet

Honored seniors 'live it up' at the banquet.

Twelve months of opening the selling room, running last minute errands for Wesson oil, paying dimes out to people who lost theirs in machines, and ordering too many hot dog buns were turned into a prom by the class of 1962. The gala "Midnight Sayonara" affair was staged at the Student Union ballroom. Dr. Harold Martin, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Bloomington, spoke at the dinner attended by 185 juniors, seniors, faculty members, and junior officers' parents.

Final Production for Seniors - Class Night

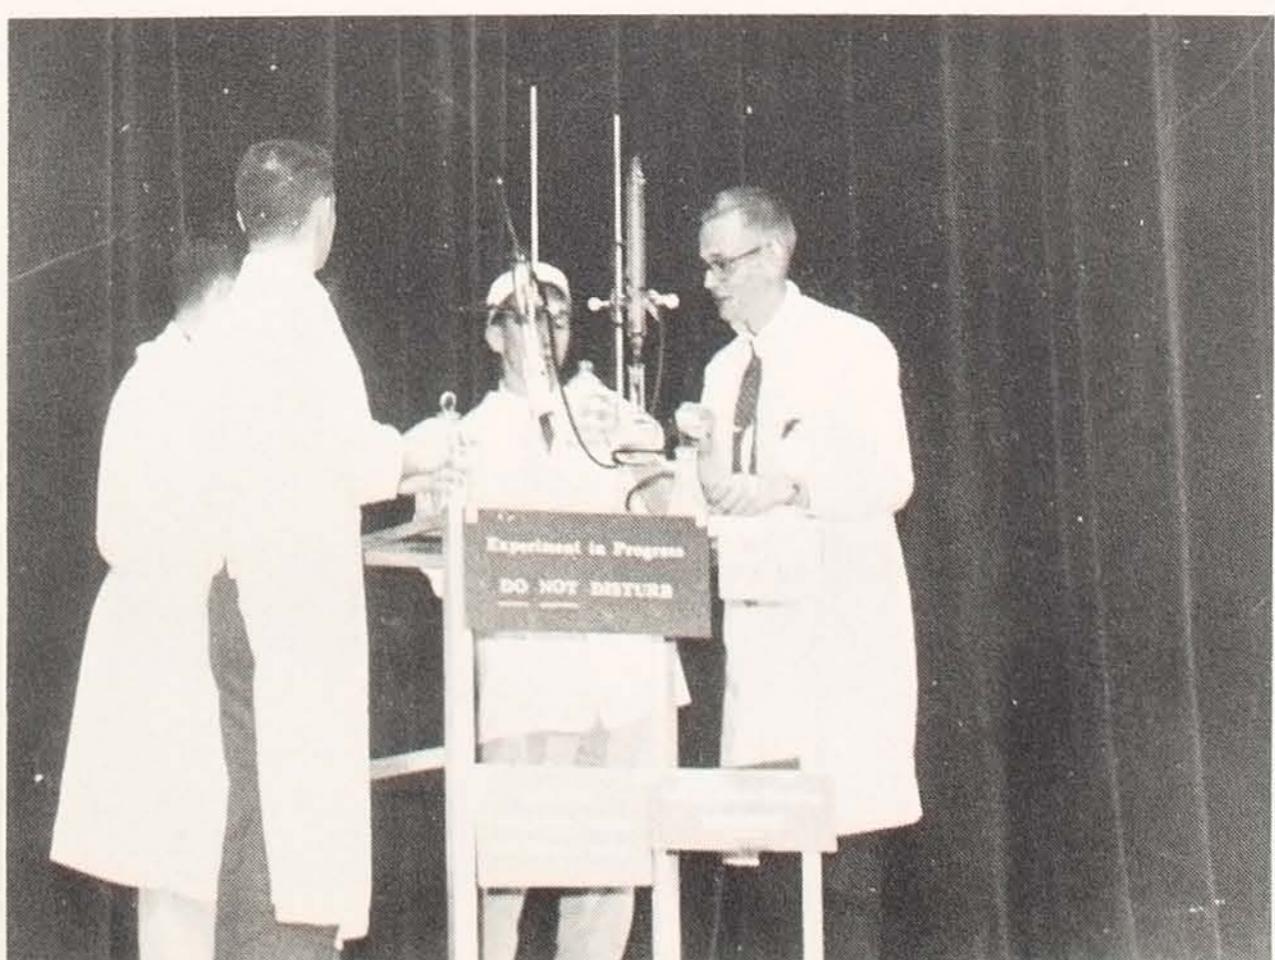

Class Night, 1961, although hastily thrown together, came out a winner. First came the Valedictory and Salutatory, the passing of the lamp of knowledge, and the presentation of school and sponsor gifts. Following the reading of the will and prophecy, the seniors presented their skits with the theme, "The Class of '61 Through the Years." They proved that their class discovered America. The class also bravely fought the Civil War for the cause of regaining a track trophy which belonged to them and not to their Orange and Black neighbors. The class also made the major breakthroughs in science and chemistry. The program was ended with the singing of "You'll Never Walk Alone." Then came the solemn moving up of classes. After the last new freshie had been applauded, the classes were dismissed in the traditional manner--seniors first. A dance in Cook Hall finished off the night of fun.

Then Comes the Inevitable - Graduation

The white-robed grand marshals led in to the auditorium, followed by the class of 1961. This was the beginning of a week of 'lasts' for seniors. This was the Baccalaureate service held for the 92 members of the class. Rev. H. Corson O'Brian gave the address, "The Door in the Wall." The service was followed by a reception for the seniors given by Dr. and Mrs. Lovelass. Then came the really big night. Graduating seniors and faculty were dressed in robes and mortarboards. The strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" floated from the open windows and doors of Capen. The beginning of the end was in sight. Dr. Leo Bent delivered the address, and then it was only a matter of time until those seniors became alumni. Each senior took his turn receiving the coveted diploma from Dr. Lovelass and a hearty handshake from Dr. Bone. Now it is all over, and the class of 1961 is no longer a part of U. High, but U. High will always be a part of it.
